Bandits Twice Rob Store and Postoffice

MAN, WOMAN PRISONERS OF THREE ROBBERS

Ventura-Los Angeles County Boundary Line Is Scene of Daring Holdup

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—The Triunfo store and post-office, near the Ventura-Los Angeles county line on the main highway, was held up and robbed twice early today by three armed and masked bandits, according to word flashed to the sheriff's office here.

The amount of money taken is not known but it is believed it will total several thousand dollars.

The three bandits, the report said, drove up to the store owned by Sam Martin, who also is postmaster in the postoffice located in his store, presumably for gasoline.

Woman Prisoner
A. M. Burnham offered the men service, in the absence of Martin, but was ordered to put up his hands and forced back into the store.

In the back room of the store was also Mrs. Martin, who was held up. While two of the bandits covered Burnham and Mrs. Martin the third robber looted the postoffice till and store register.

The bandits then tied and bound Mrs. Martin and Burnham and escaped.

Later Burnham and Mrs. Martin freed themselves and Mrs. Martin rushed to a nearby ranch to call help.

While she was gone the bandits returned, held up Burnham for the second time and got a sum of money from a slot machine.

Poses of deputies are scouring the country for the robbers.

Mystery in Sunday's Attempt at Suicide

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—Police admitted today they were still puzzled over what they claim was an effort on the part of George M. Sunday, son of the famous evangelist, "Billy" Sunday, to commit suicide via the gas route yesterday, only to be followed by an effort on the part of "Billy" Sunday, Jr., to take the blame.

Sunday's chauffeur, Ernest Holm, it was learned, had called the police and Dr. Johnson upon finding Sunday with a tube running to a gas jet in his mouth. Later, when George Sunday regained consciousness, a call was sent for "Billy" Sunday, Jr., who responded and explained he had eaten too heavily of fish and had fainted. Denials were made of an attempted suicide.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 19.—In spite of Governor "Jack" Walton's spectacular withdrawal from the impeachment trial Saturday, his "secret service" agents observed proceedings closely from the senate gallery today, as the hearing rapidly approached its end.

The house prosecution board hooked up the loose ends of its case against the suspended governor today. It was anticipated that a vote would be taken late this afternoon or tomorrow.

JAP CROPPING CONTRACTS ILLEGAL

U. S. Supreme Court Again Rules for California in Land Act

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The United States supreme court decided today that the California alien land act, which last week was held constitutional, prohibits "cropping contracts" made between Japanese and California land owners.

In another ruling clarifying its decision with respect to the validity of the California land law, the court held that the ownership of shares of stock in a California agricultural land corporation constituted an interest in real property, thus making such ownership illegal under its decision of last Monday, which barred aliens not eligible to citizenship, to own farm lands in the state of California.

Both for State
The "cropping contract" case was decided in favor of the state of California on an appeal brought by J. J. O'Brien and Inouye, a Japanese.

The stock case was decided against Raymond L. Frick and N. Satow, a Japanese, who brought suit to test the power of the state law.

TAKES FIRST PRIZE AT CONTEST

Glendale Has Opportunity to Secure Convention in Year 1925

The Sciots' band of Glendale, playing in San Diego Saturday in competition with the crack bands of the state, won first prize in Class A and established itself as the "infant prodigy" of California.

Second place in the contest, which was one of the features of the national convention of the Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciots, went to Fresno, San Francisco won third, while to Los Angeles was accorded the "booby" prize.

Credit for this surprising victory is divided between G. O. Russell, who ten weeks ago organized the local Sciots' band and is its manager, and William Osterman, who as its conductor, held only four rehearsals prior to playing the competition piece, "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna," the Carl Fischer edition arranged by Tobani.

The Fresno band, according to Mr. Russell, won first prize with this piece at last year's convention and have practiced it hundreds of times. That Glendale should capture first honors was so startling to the whole convention that for the balance of the time it was the chief topic of conversation.

May Get Convention
"As a direct result of Glendale winning the band contest in Class A," says Toparch H. M. Bennett of the local pyramid, No. 39, "support of practically the entire state is pledged to make this the convention of 1925."

INCOME TAX REDUCTION CERTAIN

Decrease Will Not Come at Expense of Soldiers' Bonus, Leaders Say

By GEO. R. HOLMES
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Income taxes from the highest to the lowest will be materially reduced by the congress that meets two weeks from today, but not at the expense of the soldiers' bonus.

This apparently was the opinion of leaders of both house and senate today after a week's conference inaugurated by the announcement of the Mellon reduction program.

Secretary Mellon proposed that income taxes be reduced generally from 30 to 40 per cent, which reduced to dollars means more than $300,000,000. Bonus advocates believe it will be possible to work out an adjusted compensation bill that will cost the government only about $100,000,000 in cash annually.

Proponents of this plan—and they number a great majority of both house and senate—predicated their belief in the assumption that almost any kind of an adjusted compensation bill will be acceptable to the veterans.

They pointed out today that in previous bonus fights, the veterans have never been insistent upon a huge cash outlay at the start, but have been content with various kinds of bills that called for a small cash outlay and a graduated system of payments or insurance extending over a number of years. It was this kind of a bill that was passed last session, and vetoed by President Harding.

STRONG NOTE BY COUNCIL CALLS FOR BERLIN TO ANSWER

Reply 'Yes' or 'No' to New Claims Levied, Is Edict of Ambassadors

BULLETIN
PARIS, Nov. 19.—According to the semi-official newspaper, Temps the ambassadors' council drew up two notes to Germany, the first dealing with the return of the former crown prince from Holland, the second concerning France's demand for re-establishment of allied military control in Germany.

BULLETIN
LONDON, Nov. 19.—On account of the seriousness of the situation in Germany, the British government is advising all women members of the allied mission staffs to leave as soon as possible, according to a Berlin dispatch to the Star today. The warning pointed out the menace from the growing food scarcity in Germany.

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service

PARIS, Nov. 19.—The inter-allied council of ambassadors today proposed a strong, joint allied note to Berlin requiring an immediate "yes" or "no" answer to the new demands levied upon Germany.

Decision to send the note is understood to be the chief feature of the solution which the council proposes for a settlement of the German problem.

There are at least two leading issues at stake in the new government problem.

First—French demand for re-establishment of allied military control.

Second—France's protest against Germany's action in allowing the former crown prince to return.

Germany rejected the former demand and answered France's protest concerning the crown prince by saying he had a lawful right to return to his native land.

It is believed that any note which may be sent to Berlin will ask Germany to reply flatly whether she will consent to allied military control and will guarantee protection for the officers of the control committee.

It was understood that the ambassadors decided to postpone action upon the question of new penalties for Germany until after the German reply is received.

The text of the tentative settlement plan was telegraphed to Brussels, London and Rome.

The French and Belgian cabinets were summoned to meet this afternoon to consider it.

Feeling Increases
Just before the conference began, advices from London indicated that Lord Grey, the British ambassador, would formally voice Britain's view to refuse to (Continued on page 8)

"How to make one dollar do the work of two is a question that many housewives have tried to solve," declared Manager Brown of the Piano Exchange at 112 West Broadway, this morning. "At the best, it is a hard thing to do, but with the approach of the holidays we are going to do our best to help Glendale housewives do that very thing."

Here's the way the Piano Exchange has worked it out: In the advertising columns of today's issue is an announcement published by this firm in which they offer to give $2 in value for every actual dollar paid on a piano up to and including the sum of $50.

It's a real two-for-one proposition, asserts Mr. Brown. Regular prices have not been advanced one cent and the offer is good on any piano or player piano in stock, he said.

DEITY IMPLANTS LOVE OF BEAUTY

Gospel Should Be Preached in Noblest Language,
Says Rev. Rasmus

"The Secret of Beauty" was the topic of Dr. H. I. Rasmus, Sr., yesterday morning at the First Methodist Episcopal church. The text was from Psalms 27-4. "One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after: that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord and to enquire in his temple."

"No one," said Dr. Rasmus, "questions the desire for beauty. We look for it in Nature, in the hills, in the sea, in the flowers. Look everywhere and we find it. These are all evidence of beauty, but they are only the outward vestment. We desire beauty in our homes, and nowhere is there such a multiplicity of taste and nowhere are there more attractive homes than in Glendale. Is it not a credit to our men to desire beauty in and around his home?"

Beauty in Temple
"The sentiment of beauty belongs to man. Beauty should characterize the Temple of God. For did not God furnish the plan and direct the building of His beautiful temple on the summit of Mount Moriah? Why should not the temple of Christ be presented in beautiful language? It was given to the world in two of the most beautiful tongues, the Greek and the Hebrew. The tendency today is to make everything cheap. Life is one of the cheapest commodities today, and there is a desire in some quarters for a cheap gospel. Beauty is sacrificed for cheapness. The secret of beauty is in the individual heart. No gospel is worth while that does not begin on your doorstep and mine."

"It is well to desire beauty of face and form. It is a gift of God for wonderful service, to be consecrated to His glory. How about those who are homely? It is our fault if we are not beautiful. If we are beautiful within, if we have an inward grace, it will come to the surface. Was it not singular that the most beautiful person of all ages should be spoken of as 'having no form or comeliness, and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him.'"

Beauty's Secret
"The secret of beauty is in character. Though rare in all ages there have been rainbow lives. To be found in obscure hovels, in the homes of wealth on the highways of life, blossoming into lives of others, largely the result of dwelling on God's wonderful character. What is the character of the heathen gods? Of the gods of mythology? Cruel, envious, unclean. But the God of the Hebrews, the true God, is a Being of purity and holiness, gracious and forgiving. His love is beautiful. His gentleness is marvelous. Transfer God's love and gentleness to man, and what have you?"

"Transfer the invincible qualities of truth to man, and you have a conquering church. The church needs not so much prosperity, long purses, social enterprise, but to bring the beauty of the gospel to men. If we do not do so, we are failures."

'What Hast Thou Done,' Is Livingston's Theme

Rev. J. C. Livingston delivered a stirring sermon at the morning service at the Casa Verdugo Methodist church, taking as his text "What Hast Thou Done?"

"Out in the world the history of Adam and Eve, Cain and Abel, is being repeated with the rising and setting of every sun," he said. "We are trying to open a view of Eden in which all persons began life in innocence, but there comes a time when we grow beyond parental restraint and become masters of our destinies."

Anthems rendered by the choir were "God's Nearness" (Emerson) with solo parts by Mrs. Robert D. Jones and Mrs. John W. Cotton. "Seek Ye the Lord," with tenor solo by John W. Cotton and soprano by Miss Martha Jones. "The Sin of Neutrality" was the subject of the sermon by the pastor at the evening service, Robert D. Jones sang a baritone solo, "The City Four-Square."

K. C. Entertainment for Church Membership

Dr. T. P. Noehle and his committee, who arranged the social affair Saturday night at the Knights of Columbus clubhouse at 330 East Lomita street, for members of the Holy Family Catholic church parish, are being justly complimented on the success of the affair. It was the first of a series of get-together social events for the holiday season.

There were 300 persons in attendance to enjoy card games and dancing. Women's prizes for cards went to Miss E. Ruprecht, first; Mrs. Heideman, second; Miss C. Ruprecht, consolation. The men's prizes went to J. Dague, first; Jesse Chappius, second; W. W. Fred, consolation.

ADAM'S CHOICES TOPIC FOR CLASS

Rev. Keith L. Brooks, in Study of Genesis, Points
Out Reason for Fall

Keith L. Brooks, speaking before the Presbyterian Brotherhood Bible class, at the City Council rooms Sunday morning, referred to published statements of Rev. Percy S. Grant, of New York, in which Dr. Grant had classified the Genesis story of man as fable and folklore, and pointed out that Dr. Grant had evidently not made a very careful examination of the Genesis statements. Discussing the second chapter of Genesis, he said in part:

"We read here of the tree of life which occupied the most conspicuous place in Paradise, and standing evidently for something which God desired Adam to choose for his good. The tree of the knowledge of good and evil occupied a less exalted position. Why was free permission given to eat of the one and prohibition in case of the other? From what is said in Scripture of the tree of life we judge that it was the symbol of the eternal life of God, including immortality."

Understood Symbol
"Perhaps Adam and Eve, with their wonderful powers of spirit and mind, and their intuitive knowledge as they were created in the image of God, understood the symbol. It was a matter of their choosing eternal life or choosing a course that would fascinate the mind but the results of which would be uncertain. Their sin was not in the eating of an apple but in putting self-gratification before trustful obedience to God. "Not only was the tree of the knowledge of good and evil in the garden, but there was one who could direct attention to it and that was Satan, referred to in the third chapter as 'the serpent,' who is said to be wiser than any creature of the land."

"When we observe the malevolence and persistence of evil in history and at the present, it seems next to impossible to believe that it comes only from an abstract principle or a slight disorder in the cosmos. Evil cannot have its basis in the impersonal any more than good can. Evil is not simply physical or mechanical. If so, man's conscience would not condemn him for wrongdoing. The problem of evil goes deeper than depravity or free agency. These are accessories but there is certainly a subtle directing hand somewhere, a superior will that overpowers the will of man unless by the grace of God divine power intervenes."

EDUCATION BASIS OF CIVILIZATION

Soul's Intellectual Hunger
Must Be Satisfied, Is Claim of Rector

Responding to the request of the committee of Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion, in charge of the observance of National Education week, Rev. Philip K. Kemp, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, yesterday preached on "Education as One of the Foundations of a Christian Civilization."

"The Christian church ever since the days of the Apostles has stood for education," said Rev. Kemp. "Jesus, Himself, came preaching and teaching the gospel of the Kingdom of God. He showed that exhortation and instruction must go hand in hand. To arouse the emotions without satisfying the intellect is to create the most useless form of religious life. A church which does not have an intellectual life that is bold and stimulating is on the road to stagnation. We must be able to worship the Lord God with our minds."

Need for Education
"It is well for us to consider the compelling needs of education. This week has been set aside as Education week. We could never turn our thoughts to anything more worth while. The words in the Book of Proverbs say, 'The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom but fools despise wisdom and instruction.'"

"Not only must any worth while education have a religious foundation but any system of religion that ignores education is treading on dangerous ground. The great follies that have from time to time been committed in the name of religion have been done through ignorance. As the apostles said of the Jews, they crucified Jesus through ignorance. The Church thus has a great interest in education. We must train the heart and mind for Christ."

Intellectual knowledge must be balanced by spiritual insight. The common conception of education must be widened to include the religious principle of service to our fellowmen. This is the Church's function, to make people think of education as that which fits them to render service in the spirit of Jesus Christ, that of going about doing good. Education if properly conceived must be a privilege for which we make return to the community that has given us the chance to possess it."

FEAR THAT CASTS OUT FEAR, THEME

This Age One of Compromise
With Forces of World,
Declares Edmonds

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church, preached in the Glendale Theatre yesterday morning and used as his sermon subject, "Fear That Casts Out Fear." The message was taken from Prov. 1:33, "He that harkeneth unto me shall dwell safely, and shall be quiet from the fear of evil."

Rev. Edmonds stated that through all the ages man has been oppressed and intimidated by selfishness and tyranny and tortured by fear. Occasionally a brave soul would arise and defy a tyrant's power and win for the nation the priceless boon of liberty. But even with the advent of liberty the spirit of fear has not ceased to dominate the great majority of human beings. Go back to Pilate. He believed in the innocence of Jesus. He strove hard to set Him free, but he feared the people, feared the authorities at Rome, feared he would lose his official position. The fear of man brought him a snare and led him to render his hands with the blood of the Son of God. No man can be true to himself or God until he has been delivered from the fear of man. "Ye are bought with a price, be ye not the servants of sin."

Age of Compromise
Days of crucifixion, burning at the stake, thumb screws and tortures of the inquisition are things of the past. Today it is intimidation, fear of being singular, losing influence, popularity, friends and fear. Many a minister is betraying the gospel because he fears to be unpopular. There is a quiet dignity and modest, courageous loyalty to Christ which rebukes impurity and sin."

Jesus Christ told His disciples that the remedy for fear of man was fear of God. Moses escaped from Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king Pharaoh's threatening had no weight with this God-fearing man. Solomon has much to say of the fear of the Lord. It is "the fountain of life," "beginning of wisdom," and the foundation of all piety and holy character. We must fear God before we can love Him. We must recognize His absolute sovereignty and accept Him as the unconditional law of life. The Gospel does not ignore the law, but rises above it as the building does above the solid foundation. The fear of God is no servile

LA CRESCENTA SOLEMN SERVICE FOR DEDICATION

Community Church Ceremonies Consecrate New Edifice; Plan Social

The La Crescenta Community church was dedicated yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock with appropriate services. The platform on which the choir was seated was beautifully decorated with huge vases of chrysanthemums.

The program for the afternoon was as follows: Prelude, doxology, invocation, Lord's Prayer, hymn, Scripture reading, anthem (by the choir) "When Shadows Come," prayer, offertory, anthem (choir) "Praise the Lord All Ye Nations," sermon, Dr. W. F. Freeman of Pasadena, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. After the dedicatory exercises the benediction was pronounced.

Will Hold Reception
From now on the church body will hold all their affairs in their new home, and Monday evening, November 19, at 8 o'clock, a public reception will be held for all residents of this valley.

Sunday school will be held in the church at 10 a. m. every Sunday. The fear of God is the reverence of a loving, trusting child who recognizes the majesty and nearness of the father. Jesus always approached His Father in the spirit of hallowed adoration and majesty. The fear of God suggests implicit and unquestioned regard for the divine will as well as submission to His holy will. "The cup which the Father hath given me shall I not drink it?" Fear is doing God's will without asking any questions.

Christ's Warning
The fear of evil looms large in men's lives. "I have had many troubles," said an old saint, "but the worst were the troubles that never came." Christ warns against anxious care, forebodings and the spirit of worry. The fear of the world is just as wrong as the love of the world. The Lord grants not only deliverance from evil but from the fear of evil. It is for us to meet the conditions. Commit our way unto Him. Obey His voice. The believer need fear no evil. The best way to bring trouble is to borrow it and expect it.

Note the sinner's fear. Is there anything more awful? The sinner lives as if God had said, "call upon me and I will not answer you," "seek me early but ye shall not find me." God really says, "I will laugh when your fear cometh." Every physician, nurse and minister knows the dying sinner's vision of eternal despair. It is a fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation which shall devour the adversaries.

day, public worship at 11 and evening worship at 7:30. All are cordially invited to attend any of these services.

The illustrated lecture given by Dr. Montague Cleaves on Gothic Architecture was a most interesting and educational affair.

Given under the auspices of the Women's Guild of St. Luke's of the Mountains for the benefit of the church building fund, it is estimated the receipts would average about $50. Dr. Cleaves has lived in England and the European countries for some years and is thoroughly conversant with the subject on which he lectured, giving a most interesting little talk with each castle or cathedral as it was thrown upon the screen.

Among the famous castles and cathedrals shown was Haddon Hall. Two views of this romantic place were shown and by request the views were thrown on the screen the second time.

To Mrs. Seymour Thomas and Mrs. R. Wildhack is due the credit for the success of the lecture as these ladies had all arrangements in their charge.

A brilliantly attired throng attended the Woman's club masquerade given Saturday evening at the school auditorium, under the management of Mrs. Mary B. Darrow who was hostess of the evening. The auditorium was gaily decorated with pumpkin-colored streamers and Japanese lanterns, while the window ledges were masses of foliage besprinkled with gay chrysanthemums. The lights were covered with the orange streamers which fluttered over the heads of the dancers. Many were the comments on the appearance of the hall, the consensus of opinion being that it was more beautifully decorated than it had ever been.

Mrs. T. A. Bennett had charge of the decorating with Mrs. C. O. Miller as her assistant, and these ladies spent many hours on the work. The exceptionally fine coffee to serve with the pumpkin pies was made by Mrs. Jessie Collins; the punch was made and donated by Mrs. Thomas Brown, who also served it.

A case of small bottles of milk was donated by Mrs. Durandt of Hansen Heights dairy. The confetti, paper ribbons and feather ticklers were ordered for the club by the La Crescenta pharmacy, and the first prize for the ladies' costume, a large box of Kaighin's bon-bons, was donated by Thomas Brown.

The ladies presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. Mark Collins, Mrs. C. Klat, Mrs. G. Aiken, Mrs. G. Haskins, Mrs. C. Martin. The grand march was led by Thomas Brown, who was attired as a court dandy of the seventeenth century, and Mrs. Mark Collins, who was dressed as a demure little lady of the early eighteenth century.

Prizes Awarded
To this couple went the two first prizes for the most beautiful costumes, while Mrs. J. Kelly of Honolulu Acres carried off a ribbon doll for the most comical woman's costume, and Earl Young a purple dog for the hobo costume he wore.

From every standpoint the evening was a wonderful success, everyone entering into the spirit of the masque and enjoying

OXY TIGERS MAUL BRANCH FRESHIES

Thrilling Grid Contest Sends Eagle Rock Players to Front Again

By LARRY RAYMOND
Of The Evening News Staff.
Coach Jimmy Cline's Cub varsity were massacred by Pipal's Tiger warriors in a thrilling grid battle waged on Paterson field Saturday afternoon. The Oxy second and third stringers put across the best brand of football shown by the Tigers this season and scored an overwhelming victory, leaving the S. B. U. C. hand-picked team mourning the loss of another game. The result of the slaughter was 20 to 6 in Oxy's favor. The Branch eleven fought gamely and bravely through the entire rumpus.

Oxy's hope of tying Caltech for first place in the conference are again visualized and a near reality. If the Tiger substitutes can run wild through S. B. U. C. and make as good a showing as the Pomona varsity did, then the first string Oxy eleven will undoubtedly maul the Sageshens all over the Claremont gridiron next Saturday in their final football battle of the year. Caltech is sure of a victory over the Cubs this coming Saturday and they will then likely tie for top honors with their rivals from Eagle Rock. No play-off is allowed in the Southern California Conference. Also the hopes of the Branch to ascend from the depths of the bottom of the cellar have totally diminished.

S. B. U. C. Freshmen Win

In the curtain raiser the S. B. U. C. frosh disposed of the ferocious Tiger babes to the merry tune of 6 to 3. The teams were evenly matched and neither was able to penetrate beyond the opponents' twenty-yard line. It was a case of winning on drop kicks and place kicks, and all the scoring was done in the first half. The Cubs are now favored to cop the freshmen conference football championship.

The varsity game started on time, for a change, and the Tigers took the field minus the services of some seven first-team players. Captain Tony Spangler and Cliff Argue were forced to play left-out because of injuries received last week. Husky Dave Ridderhoff, of Tarzan of the Oxy machine, pulled a tendon in the Caltech game and remained on the bench throughout the two-hour disturbance. Likewise Clarence Ebers, star punter and open field runner, Tevis Westgate, Fochie Smith and Tiny Snoodly played wall flowers most of the time. And still the disrupted Tiger eleven showed more class, ran better interference, hustled through the line at will, and circled the Cubs for consistent gains. They fought desperately in an attempt to re-establish the reputation of Oxy in the football limelight, and they more than succeeded.

Straight Football

Using straight football, few trick plays, and but two forward passes the Oxy team worked the ball down the field to the Cub twenty-five yard line. Here the Branch held and Shoaf booted a clean field goal. In the second period the Tigers blocked a punt and Pursel recovered for Oxy and ran twenty-five yards. Wheeler added another twenty-five by bucking the line and crossed the goal line for a touchdown. Shoaf converted. Another costly fumble by a Branch player and the keen eye of a certain mister Lindquist, who recovered the oval and paraded fifty yards down the field for another score, spelled absolute defeat for the Cubs. Again Shoaf kicked goal. The half ended 17 to 6, when Peake bucked the ball over.

Coming back in the second half the S. B. U. C. squad held the Tigers down the field for three points, scored by Wheeler's twenty-five yard field goal in the third quarter. S. B. U. C. completed several neat passes for considerable gains. The Oxy second and third stringers lacked the speed and driving power to buck the ball through the strong opponent's line. Oxy relies on Spangler and Argue for snagging long forward passes and without them, the Orange and Black did not attempt to pass.

Coach Cline's men had a good chance to score in the last three minutes of play when they possessed the ball on the Tiger three-yard line. Peake attempted to go over and some heavyweight hit him and he dropped the oval. Tanaka, sub end for Oxy, recovering and Ebers, who had just gone in, punted out of danger.

The leading man was no other than Roy Wheeler, fighting guard on the Occidental line, who had been shifted to fullback to take the place of plunging Dave Ridderhoff. Wheeler was in every play. He punted forty-five and fifty yards consistently, did all the passing, kicked off for Oxy, ran perfect interference, and smashed through the line and galloped around the ends for large gains, not to speak of his scoring a touchdown. Young Wheeler weighs in the neighborhood of 180 pounds, and has two more years of varsity football. There is little doubt but what Wheeler will be one of the best halfbacks on the coast before he graduates from college. Peake and Bishop starred for S. B. U. C.

Line-up:

And this is not a football score. It's real old-fashioned corner lot baseball, with Anaheim furnishing the corner lot stuff and Mike Donlin's gang the real article.

After playing a tie game with Palms-Culver City in the opening game of the Triple A circuit, Glendale came back yesterday and swamped the Orange county outfit, burying them under a barrage of home runs, triples, doubles and base hits. In the second and third innings it looked as though Anaheim was going to have to call on the fire department for assistance in putting Glendale out.

Averages Fattened
Everybody wearing the Kerwin livery fattened their batting averages with the exception of Manusch. Doc Crandall led the assault with four hits out of six trips to the plate, including a triple and a double. Perry O'Brien and Babe Herman connected for four-plays swats, Doran getting a double.

Both Heidler and Arnold Crandall piled good ball, letting the Anaheim bunch down with six hits, and keeping them safe at all stages of the game.

GRID DOPE SEES TWO BIG UPSETS

Syracuse and W. and J.
Defeats Surprise Followers of Pigskin Game

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Except in a few isolated instances, most of the calculations on Saturday's football returns stood up. Yale, Cornell, California, West Virginia, Illinois and Texas remaining in the undefeated form. The dope went wrong on Syracuse and Washington and Jefferson, however.

Syracuse, the only team in the country that had preserved its goal line inviolate, was reckoned on as an almost sure thing over Colgate, but the latter's cast of prima donas finally decided to play football and the result was a cataclysmic defeat for the Orange. W. and J. likewise looked like the best bet in the world over Pittsburgh, but the Presidents finished second, nevertheless. The only thing that may be said in extenuation is that, certainties seem to be very uncertain this season.

Yale's victory over Princeton was very convincing. Not only did the bulldog roll up 27 points, but it did so without exposing the strategic hand or using all the resources at its command. At the same time Cornell, another of the east's unbeaten teams, was winning in a romp over Johns Hopkins and saving most of its strategy for Pennsylvania.

Desperate Measures

Two more of the leaders, West Virginia and Illinois, won by top-heavy scores over St. Louis and Mississippi Aggies, but Michigan had to resort to desperate measures to pull out a victory over Wisconsin, the winning touchdown being a matter of some dispute.

At the same time the Browns' defeat of Harvard only served to confirm the impression that the Crimson is not a typical Harvard team. It played second string men for the most part and Brown undoubtedly is a stronger outfit than the Bruins.

West of the Alleghenies most of the returns ran true to calculations. Not only did Michigan and Illinois win, but Chicago took a fall out of Ohio State, Minnesota outscored Iowa, Notre Dame came back with a clear-cut victory over Butler and Nebraska was two touchdowns better than Iowa State.

Two Small Fires Are Total for Week-end

The fire department was called upon to extinguish two small fires during the week-end. The first alarm, turned in at 1 o'clock Saturday, was the result of a small fire in the wash near Louise street. The department extinguished the blaze before any damage had been done.

The second fire was rather a unique one. An old wooden well, a curiosity in these days, was on fire at 536 Vine street at 1:30 Sunday afternoon. The blaze was an incipient one and was easily extinguished.

L. A. Baseball Club Seeks Waviers on Fourteen Players

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—In the first shake-up ever engineered by the Los Angeles baseball club, announcement was made today that waviers had been asked for 14 players.

The list of players scheduled to leave Los Angeles includes seven pitchers, four outfielders and three infielders. There is to be a big shake-up in the pitching staff and only "Doc" Crandall and Wallace are to retain their jobs. Among the players almost certain to go are Red Smith, Lindumore, Dixie Carroll and probably Jimmy McAuley, shortstop.

BEARS TRAIN FOR STANFORD MATCH

Smith Sends Coast Leaders
Through Light Workout
for Final Tilt

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—Topping the Pacific Coast Conference through their victory Saturday over the Washington Huskies, University of California football players went through a light workout today in preparation for their final tilt of the season against Stanford. The game, marking dedication of California's new million dollar stadium, will be played Saturday at Berkeley.

Washington, crushed with the loss of their first game this year, returned today to Seattle, where they play Washington State November 24. Other Coast Conference games will see Idaho against the University of Southern California at Los Angeles and the Oregon Aggies against the University of Oregon at Eugene.

Although definite announcement is lacking, it is expected that California's "wonder" team will be selected to play the Navy eleven at Pasadena in the annual post-season East-West tilt. Pickings of the eleven to represent the far west against the sailors may be deferred until after the California-Stanford classic.

TROJAN PLAYERS WALLOP ARIZONA

First, Second, Third String
Men Help to Pile Up
69 to 6 Score

By "DOC" MCGILLIS
Of The Evening News Staff.
After going through a more or less unsatisfactory season in the Pacific Coast conference, the University of Southern California football eleven Saturday made a strong effort to console their followers by romping over Coach McKale's Wildcats from the University of Arizona to the unmerciful tune of 69 to 6. Although the visitors presented the weakest lineup that has ever represented the Cactus State in Southern California, nevertheless "Gloomy Gus" Henderson's Trojans' performance showed that they still possess a powerful machine, one which would probably rank among the first ten of the country.

Playing combinations of first, second and even third string men during the four periods, the Cardinal and Gold made the afternoon one of versatility in attack. Line bucking, off-tackle plays, end runs and forward passes were equally distributed in the home team's offensive program, all of which resulted in substantial gains.

From a spectator's standpoint, the contest was a bust. Aside from witnessing an occasional successful forward pass by the Wildcats, following the ball after one of their fumbles or watching a Trojan elude several Arizona tacklers, the cash customers got most of their thrills from the reports of eastern and northern games. Several thousand left during the fourth quarter of the slaughter.

One Arizona Star

The play of several of the U. S. C. athletes was, as was that of Pete Brown, Arizona's fighting left half, particularly noticeable. If Arizona had any offensive at all most of it was wrapped up in Brown, who scored their only run after having advanced the ball forty-five yards at the completion of a forward pass. For the Trojans Captain Doley, Henry LeFebvre, Johnny Riddle, Hobbs Adams, Ed Green, Buster Dupuy and one or two others made good showings.

ATHLETICS TRIM DANCERS, 11 TO 2

Reorganized Team Plays
Fine Ball at Initial Game
Against Visitors

The re-organized Glendale Athletic club team made its bow before local fans at Verdugo park yesterday afternoon, and created a good impression by winning from Bond's Dancers by the score of 11 to 2.

The locals found Powers, the Dancer hurler, for fourteen hits and bunched them to good advantage. Home runs by Viall and E. Harrison of the Glendale team in the first inning put the locals out in the lead with four runs, and they were never headed from that time. "Lefty" Bacon pitched good ball, and kept the visitors' hits well scattered. Acosta and Harris were the hitting stars of the day, getting three and four safe blows, respectively, out of five trips to the plate.

The locals made a very good showing in their first game, and with more practice will be able to give the best semi-pro teams of this section a good battle. Score by innings:
Dancers.....0 1 0 0 0 0 1—2
G. A. C.....4 1 0 0 0 3 0—11

Powers and Corin, Bacon and Falkner.

Game called at end of eighth inning on account of darkness.

Builders Exchange to Vote on New Members

The Builders' exchange of Glendale will hold its next regular meeting Friday night at 113 North Maryland avenue, reports Henry Molz, secretary-manager.

As action will be taken on twenty-five candidates for membership, in addition to consideration of other important business, Mr. Molz urges every member to be present.

Among the business matters to come up, he states, is the establishing of a division of the exchange in Burbank.

Sgt. Kerns' Son Is Police Dept. Recruit

The latest recruit to join the ranks of the Glendale police force is a fine 7½-pound boy in the family of Sergeant J. A. Kerns of 1135 Raymond avenue, born this morning, November 19, 1923, on Friday after 5 o'clock at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Both mother and son are doing nicely. The state of mind of the father is not obtainable at this time, as he did not report for duty at police headquarters this morning.

MONTROSE NEW OWNERS WILL ENLARGE GROCERY

School Law on First Grade
Registration Confuses
Pupils' Parents

Announcement has been made that the Marsh grocery on Montrose avenue has been sold to Nelson & Ross, who plan several improvements in the store. Mr. Ross is a recent arrival from Iowa, and has purchased property on Placencia drive. Mr. Nelson comes from Whittier.

The new owners plan to enlarge the stock and make alterations in the store that will include installation of a meat department.

School Law Confuses
A school law that provides that no pupils for the first grade can be accepted for registration after the first month of the term has caused some confusion in the Montrose district, where several children were kept out until the new Montrose school building was completed. Under this law they cannot now enter until the next term starts. Principal Blanford has been investigating to ascertain what can be done about it.

Harry Hooper has sold his home on East Honolulu avenue to E. C. Morrison of La Canada, who plans to take possession soon. The Hoopers plan to make their home in Hollywood.

H. M. Selby and Mrs. Selby, former residents of Montrose, who left there early this year to go east, have returned and will make their home in Montrose again. They have just completed a four weeks' automobile trip across the country.

Harold Renner, son of A. T. Renner of Montrose, recently arrived from Detroit, Mich., and expects to make his home in Montrose.

Poison Victim Better

Elmer Palmer, ptomaine poison victim, is recovering from the effects of the poisoning, according to late reports. He has been taken to his home in Montrose from the Glendale Hospital, where he received treatment.

Carroll Dixley is a recent arrival from Chicago. Mr. Dixley will select a home in Montrose, and his family will join him as soon as it is ready.

English Visitors to Settle in Glendale

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Booth of 111 South Kenwood street are having the pleasure of entertaining as their guests Mr. Booth's nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Owen of Yorkshire, Eng.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen arrived here on Friday and expect to make their permanent home in Glendale. They will remain with the Booths until they find a suitable location. They arrived aboard the "Leviathan," spending a week in New York City. They state they are delighted with Southern California and Glendale.

LOCAL TEACHERS ATTEND INSTITUTE

Forest Preservation Expert
Makes Address; Musical Program Feature

Fully 500 teachers were in attendance this morning when Principal George U. Moyses of the high school called the opening session of the Teachers' Institute to order. Practically the entire personnel of the teaching staff of the Glendale district, including both grammar schools and high school, was present.

After taking up the routine work incident to the opening of the conference, Mr. Moyses introduced F. M. Fultz, formerly of Santa Barbara, the author of several books on forest preservation.

Industrial Talk

Mr. Fultz spoke on "The Preservation of the Chaparral." This topic was of especial interest to those present on account of the recent fire which swept the hills adjacent to Glendale. His lecture was appropriately illustrated by lantern slides, depicting the terrible effects of forest mutilation through carelessness. Mr. Fultz stated that the Elfin forest in the southland was of just as much importance as the monster pine forests of the north, and just as deserving of our protection. The lecture will be of inestimable help to the local teachers in the furtherance of their work along this line.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon session was opened at 1:30 o'clock with Richardson D. White, city superintendent, presiding. The orchestra and boys' glee club from the high school rendered the following program:

- (a) Spanish Dance No. 2.....Moszkowski
- (b) Dance Negre (Samba's Holiday).....Tschakoff
- (c) High School Orchestra
- Piano solo, "Shepherds and Shepherdesses".....Godard
- (a) When Billows are Rocking.....Geibel
- (b) A Health to all Good Fellows.....Chaffee

Boys' Glee Club

H. P. Wilson, superintendent of the Berkeley schools, was presented by Mr. White as the principal speaker of the afternoon and he gave a splendid address on school work and its problems.

The institute will adjourn tonight to meet again during the Christmas week for three days in conjunction with the other schools in Southern California.

MAKES RATS MAD

Rats with rabies, acting just like mad dogs, were discovered in the picturesque and peaceful little town of Reinoso, Spain. A rat terrier used to help rid the town of rats recently contracted rabies, and the disease spread. The town was finally rid of the mad pests by placing tubs of arsenic water in all houses. Animals suffering from rabies develop great thirst, and they soon had exterminated themselves.

A Little Manufacturing Talk on

COMALT

The New Chocolate Malted Milk

I have carefully watched the way in which you have taken to this wonderful product and thought perhaps that a few words from the manufacturing department might be of interest. For a great many years I have been a manufacturing chemist and my training has thoroughly taught me that the great essential points of any food or drink for public consumption are purity of the raw materials, care in compounding and the maintenance of a standard in quality and production. In the selection of the raw materials for COMALT I take the greatest care that what is used comes up to my standard. I critically analyze and test because you must realize that I must produce a finished article that will please not only the people of this state but every state in the country, as COMALT is now being shipped everywhere and has become a standard CHOCOLATE MALTED MILK.

I frequently have submitted to me products that if I were to accept them would make quite a difference in my cost of production, but the ultimate result would be a very different COMALT to what I am producing now.

Milks, sugars, flavorings used in COMALT are the very best I can get, and the result is an article that will keep and be just as good in the cold Northern climates as in the warm Southern ones, and I would add here that COMALT is as good a hot food drink as it is a cold one.

When you or your family are using COMALT you are getting more than a beverage, you are getting a valuable food combination that has in it every high grade food essential for brain and body that should make it an article of constant consumption with you, and I, backed by the officers of the S. W. BROWN CO., Inc., will continue to see that this high standard is maintained.

You are welcome to come and see my work whenever you wish, and it would be better for the consuming public today if they would take a little more interest in knowing what they eat and drink and how it is made.

COMALT IS MADE IN OUR OWN LABORATORIES HERE IN GLENDALE.

Sincerely Yours,

TUJUNGA TURKEYS PRIZES AT LEGION SHOOT

One Hundred Fat Birds to Go to Sharpshooters at Rifle Contest

Members of Post 250 of the American Legion have completed arrangements for the annual Thanksgiving turkey shoot to be held next Sunday, November 25, at the Bugle ranch rifle range at Tujunga.

M. E. Hill of the Tujunga post announces that there will be plenty of large birds, probably 100, given as prizes to the sharpshooters making the best scores. Arrangements have been made for a perfectly appointed shooting range and it will be managed by experts.

Ladies of the auxiliary will conduct a refreshment booth where lunches will be served. Working together, the two organizations plan to make this affair bigger and better than any previous.

Landscape painting. A general discussion of landscape painting will be followed by dancing and refreshments at the next meeting of the Fine Arts Guild at the studio on Michigan avenue Saturday, November 24.

Miss Juanita Causey, who taught painting and sculpture in Chicago, is conducting a class in landscape study at the studio on Michigan avenue. Miss Causey is now a resident of Glendale and a member of the Glendale Art association. One of her paintings is now on exhibition at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse.

The Mystic Maze club, an organization of girls, was entertained recently by Miss Ruth Allen. Each girl is to adopt a big sister to share in their socials and assist in entertaining.

Dances given by the American Legion and the Auxiliary at Legion hall every Saturday night are well attended. A local orchestra furnishes music and the ladies serve refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kautz of Tujunga were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. De Arman in Burbank.

Mrs. Elizabeth Shaner recently entertained friends at dinner. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sumner H. Adams, Miss Osgood, Mrs. Cora Linaberry and Dr. Francis Hanks of Tujunga; Miss Hudson of Boston, Mass., and Mr. Williams of San Francisco.

MARION, Ill., Nov. 19.—W. S. ("Whitey") Doering, St. Louis gangster, under sentence of forty years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Mo., for his part in a $200,000 mail robbery here, but out on a $90,000 appeal bond, today is dying at a Herrin hospital, and Charles Birger, of Williamson county, is in a critical condition, as the result of a shooting last night at Birger's restaurant half-way between Marion and Johnson City.

Club Circus Proves to Be Big Success

ways and means, whose business ability is known among clubwomen in district, state and national clubs, again led the Tuesday Afternoon club to victory, and again deserving of hearty commendation.

A complete report of the circus will be given at tomorrow's club meeting by Mrs. Montgomery, and it is anticipated that the total amount will far surpass the $3000 mark.

Gives Back Car
Of course the grand finale of the circus was the awarding of the Ford automobile by Ruth Roland, moving picture star, Mrs. S. W. Jamieson of 921 Matilija road, held the lucky number and, upon receiving the car, she returned the courtesy to the clubwomen by presenting the car to them to sell and add the amount realized to the circus fund.

The beautiful hope chest, donated by the New England Furniture company and filled by members of the courtesy committee, is to go to the person holding ticket No. 101. If it is not claimed, ticket No. 342, held by Mrs. Foor of 618 North Maryland avenue will get the chest.

Dr. C. R. Lusby won the silver tea ball; Mrs. Coughlin received the picture at the handkerchief booth; the picture by Julia Steedman Nichols is to go to ticket No. 3 or to ticket No. 107; the taffeta pillow to ticket No. 84; the head bag at the handkerchief booth to Mrs. Roake; the silk combination garment to ticket No. 41; the ham to Mrs. Pritaux.

Awards at the doll booth were: Pendroy's doll to W. E. Roake; Wehl's doll to Ruth Roake; Fisher doll to Mary Jane Bolker; Jackie Coogan doll to Mrs. Dan Green of Pasadena; green doll to Lillian Webster; Ruth Roland doll to Miss Ida Waite; mother doll to Miss June Hamill; stage to Martell McKee.

The Mah Jongg set was won by Mrs. Gorman; the lamp by Mrs. Kelly, and the canary bird by Mrs. Campbell.

Mrs. Roy C. Flint won the beautiful dore scarf and pin cushion at the booth of the music section.

One of the big attractions was the parcel post booth, arranged and managed by Mesdames Fred Abbey, Eugene Gilliland and Bentley.

A GREAT MAN

Marjorie Sudlow, Acacia Avenue
One of the great men of the Revolutionary war, whom we all love, is George Washington. He was born on February 12, 1732, in Virginia. His education was aided by George Washington. He was born on February 12, 1732, in Virginia. His father died when he was eleven years old and he spent the rest of his boyhood days on the farm. He was very fond of athletics and out-of-door sports. He was one of the best riders to be found.

He at first wished to be a sailor, but as this was against the wishes of his mother he gave it up.

He despised a coward, and when the Revolutionary war began he went as a soldier, but later became commander-in-chief of our army.

While yet a young officer, he met Martha Curtis, who later became his wife.

After seven long years he bade a sad farewell to his officers and went home to Mount Vernon. However, he did not stay here long, as he was called upon to be our first president of the United States. He was re-elected and people wanted him for a third term, but he refused.

He had been a good boy he was a good statesman, and he will always be remembered as a noble man, not afraid to do right.

He died at the age of sixty-seven, less than two years after he left the president's chair. All good Americans honor his name and call him the "Father of his country."

THRIFT

Evelyn Molz, Columbus Avenue
Thrifft does not only mean saving of money and the saving of large things, but it is just as important to save on little things as with big ones. Every child gets a chance to be thrifty in the home, at school, or on the street.

Waste is a big item in the home, food being the most important one. Many families waste food in a week which would be sufficient to last others a month.

At school, a saving in paper, crayons and in the use of books. We do not realize the expense of these things. Many of us feel there is no need of saving them since we do not have to buy them. But our parents buy them, not directly, but in paying taxes.

On the street there is not much chance for saving. However, be saving in the use of others' property, the breaking of the many sidewalks, and destroying of lawns, backyards and carelessness are a common evil, allowing much room for saving.

Though Germany has played a great part in radium research and has several radium institutes, it possesses less of the mineral than either France or Austria.

Kirk Party Puzzles Over Tangled German Finances On Leaving Switzerland

W. B. KIRK

Glendalians are going to continue traveling through Switzerland to Germany today in company with W. B. Kirk, whose travel letters are proving most interesting to The Glendale Evening News readers. In his last letter Mr. Kirk wrote of visiting Lucerne, and today he begins:

"Between Lucerne and Zurich is apparently the best farming section of Switzerland, at least there was more of it because the valleys are wider. Farmers are finishing up their hay harvest, which seems very heavy. There are a lot of apple orchards in this section. The country continued beautiful.

"Our hotel here had steam on, which was gratefully noted because the weather has grown quite frosty. Yesterday morning was very foggy and cold, but, like California, it warmed up during the day.

"The first thing I did was to seek out the office of the German consul here and secure visas into 'Deutschland.' I was hoping that through exchange or in some other way, I could scale down the cost of $10 for each passport, but they are wise to the game, and instead of making a charge of fifty Swiss francs for each, counting the value of the franc at par, 20 cents, they charge 55 francs, as their value is only about 18 cents in our money. Thus I had to dig up about $20.

Get Thirty-Day Visas
I was questioned closely as to when and where we were going, and given visas for thirty days. That's the price we pay for Uncle Sam making a similar charge. While our two passports and visas have already cost us over $125, with more to come, I don't feel like making the kick that many travelers are making nowadays over the cost of red tape and necessary to enter foreign countries.

"While the charge is altogether too high for some of the smaller countries, we have had no vexatious trouble or delay, and have had uniformly splendid treatment. I believe that all nations have been altogether too lax in their police regulations, especially our own country. We have a right to know, and we should know, something about every person in our country, and their goings and comings from one state to another should be noted.

"We have been, and still are, altogether too careless in permitting every criminal degenerate, agitator and anarchist to come to our shores and, after he is there, to move about at his own free will, with no surveillance over him unless he becomes notorious. The same applies to other nations.

Anything But Marks
"I have tried to find out what money they are using in Germany, so as to secure some of it before entering the country, and am told that dollars, pounds and Swiss francs are all right, anything but marks. I have been securing all the one-dollar bills I could pick up, but they are very scarce.

"Cook's agent at Lucerne told me they could have used a million of them, but that they were not to be had. Here and there, however, I have gathered about fifty of them and have about half that many 10-shilling (one-half pound) notes, which, together with some Swiss 5-franc notes, will save me a lot of banking trouble, I hope.

"The American I referred to in my last letter warned me that I couldn't get things cheap in Germany. He says they keep tab on the fluctuation of the mark and price everything accordingly, so that they get gold basis prices; that you can't get any thing from hotels as to what your bill is going to be till you depart, when they have tacked on 80 per cent for state tax, 20 per cent for something else, and 15 per cent for service; that they are all a set of robbers, and that it will be so uncomfortable that we won't stay there long.

May Curtail Visit
"If it is as bad as he says, we probably will cut down the length of time we had expected to stay, and may cut out a few of the towns we expected to visit; but Munich, Nuremberg, Berlin, Dresden, Prague, Vienna and Innsbruck will not be among that number unless things should be a lot worse than I anticipate. We will try not to worry over troubles that may never happen.

"While I am on the subject of finance, I must say that the subject of money is an interesting study while traveling over here. I don't suppose we could possibly have made this trip at a time when exchange was more in our favor, all around. In round figures, it has been, and is, about as follows: British pound, $4.60; French franc, 6 cents; Belgian franc, 5 cents; Swiss franc, 18 cents; Italian lire, 4 1/2 cents; German mark—(?). There is quite a difference in the rate charged for the exchange by different people. I find that good banks make the lowest charge.

"The money of one country can't be used in another, no matter how close the country may be, so going into different countries as we are going, is a problem to be able to clean up on your small stuff and have none left over, and not to forget to secure at least a little of the money of the country to which you are going, so as to have sufficient to pay your porter, taxi, or for a meal or two, before you are settled enough to figure out about how much total of the money of that country you will need.

"Metal money is not exchangeable in other countries at all, except at a big discount.

Read of Forest Fire
"BASLE, Oct. 19.—Since beginning to write this we have secured a copy of the New York Herald, telling of the big fire which was threatening Pasadena. Of course we were very much worried, not only for the general destruction, but for our friends in Pasadena, Montrose and La Crescenta.

"Several of my closest business associates live in Altadena and Pasadena. I was tempted to cable, but, as we got the paper late, figured that we would have another paper as early as we could expect a reply, which proved to be the case, and the later paper states that a shifting wind turned back the fire, so that Pasadena was saved.

"It states, however, that Montrose, La Crescenta and La Canada were 'licked by the flames.' That's bad enough. Surely you have had little rain if the vegetation burns like that. We are hoping that the usual first reports are very much exaggerated and that the damage is smaller than stated. It saddens us to think of that lovely section blackened and marred so that it will require years to restore it. But we will wait. What a terrible destruction it would have caused had it wiped out Pasadena.

Strike Cold Weather
"Our trip from Zurich here was without incident. The morning was cold and very foggy, so that our view was obstructed, even later in the day. Our auto ride over Zurich was a rather cold one, but we could see it was a splendidly-built, large city. It is the largest city in Switzerland, having 200,000 people. This city is next, with some 150,000, then Geneva and Lucerne.

"But we must bid adieu to this hospitable land. In about two hours we enter another, which is now full of trouble and uncertainty. What its future will be is very problematical. I have secured my first installment of marks, at the rate of 23 milliards (billions) to the pound. I will inclose one to Mr. Cowan; if you want to be a millionaire for a minute, ask him to let you handle this fifty-million banknote (worth just one cent)."

Another Kirk letter will be published later this week.

Bible Student Will Give Lecture Course

Predictions that the Bible Section of The Tuesday Afternoon club is to be greatly augmented at the meeting tomorrow morning, are based on the fact that Miss Winifred Rousee, a student and traveler, will begin a course of study she is to present to the club women.

Miss Rousee appeared before the club at the regular meeting last week, and so inspiring was her talk on her recent world trip that many of the club women are planning to join the Bible Section for her course of lectures.

The Bible Section is one unit of the club open to club members and outsiders, and Mrs. Charles H. Temple, curator, has issued a special invitation to the opening meeting with Miss Rousee tomorrow. The business hour will begin at 10:15 o'clock, and Miss Rousee will speak at 10:30 o'clock.

The report on the successful results of the society circus will undoubtedly be the big feature of Tuesday Afternoon club members, meeting regularly tomorrow at the clubhouse. This report will probably be given during the short club meeting preceding the program, by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, chairman of ways and means.

Mrs. W. S. Stevens of Long Beach, chairman of conservation of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's clubs, is to be one of the honored guests and speakers at the luncheon. The club women will also entertain at luncheon, Mrs. Douglas, representing the "Goodwill Industries."

After the club meeting early in the afternoon, Anna Zelenko will present "Russian Folk Art in Song, Dance and Ornament." Miss Zelenko was formerly instructor in folk dancing and story-telling in the Moscow City University of Russia, and is a member of the Russian and American story-telling leagues.

French indignation against Germany was increased by news from Berlin that a French and a Belgian member of the inter-allied control commission in Germany had been arrested by Reichswehr in Saxony.

It was understood that General Nollet, head of the commission, would come to Paris from Berlin to make a detailed report upon the incident.

FAMOUS SINGERS TO GIVE CONCERT

Immanuel Male Quartet and Saxophone Club Appear in Local Church

Music lovers of Glendale are looking forward to a great musical treat at the Glendale Presbyterian church tomorrow night. The Immanuel male quartet and Saxophone club of Los Angeles will give a concert consisting of quartets, trios, duets and solos, with voice and saxophones. This will be the second time this quartet has appeared in Glendale. Their many friends who heard them before in Glendale or who have heard them over the radio will be glad of this opportunity to hear them again. When William Jennings Bryan made his recent lecture tour of the western states this quartet accompanied him and were given an enthusiastic ovation wherever they appeared.

The organization is under the management of M. L. Stewart and is made up of Joseph Kleinasser, first tenor; David Kleinasser, second tenor; Arthur L. Reimer baritone, and Peter D. Eitzen, basso. They are all artists and have appeared repeatedly at many points in Southern California. They will appear at the Chamber of Commerce dinner at the Glendale Country club at noon tomorrow. During the afternoon they will give concerts at Glendale avenue intermediate school, East Broadway school and Wilson avenue intermediate school. A large audience is expected to greet the quartet tomorrow night, as they are said to be one of the most popular musical organizations of the western coast. A silver offering will be received at the close of the program.

WHITE WILL SPEAK

Richardson D. White, superintendent of Glendale schools, is to be one of the honored guests and speakers tomorrow noon at the Tuesday Afternoon club. He will speak on National Educational week.

FOUR INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

Angeleno's Car Overturned in Crash at Crossing of Brand and Maple

Four persons were injured Saturday afternoon at 3:30, when two cars, one driven by William C. Gibson, 336 West Fifth street, Los Angeles, the other by Mrs. Emma Braer, 611 East Broadway, Glendale, collided at the corner of Maple avenue and Brand boulevard.

The Gibson car, heavily loaded, carrying besides Mr. Gibson, who was driving, his wife, his son Charles, a daughter Nellie, Mrs. H. Barr and Mrs. H. McCann and baby, all of the Gibson home in Los Angeles, was going north on Brand. Mrs. Braer was going west on Maple and the two cars struck at the intersection. The car driven by Mr. Gibson was overturned. His wife, who suffered a broken collarbone, was the most seriously injured of any in the accident. Nellie Gibson was cut on the wrist and severely shaken up. Mr. Gibson suffered cuts and abrasions and his boy Charles was injured about the legs. The other passengers escaped without injury, as did Mrs. Braer.

The injured persons were removed to the Maple Avenue pharmacy, where they received medical attention. They were later taken to their home.

THE GLENDALE

"Soft Boiled," now showing at the Glendale Theatre, with Tom Mix in the lead, with his wonder horse, "Tony," offers something out of the ordinary in film entertainment. Here Tom for the first time plays comedy, and the result is that some of the ranking comedians had better look to their laurels.

Playing the role of a shoe clerk from the tenderfoot country, the famous star finds it necessary to wear an ill-fitting suit of salt and pepper pattern, supplemented with a pair of horn-rimmed spectacles. In this role he is a riot. And, as the masked dancer in "Soft Boiled," Tom Mix and the charming little Billie Dove show that dancing is more of their accomplishments. J. G. Blystone directed the picture. He assembles the new Mix elements for this picture in a masterly manner.

THE GATEWAY

"The Isle of Lost Ships," a Maurice Tourneur production presented by M. C. Levee through First National, is a tale that leaps beyond the frontiers of imagination and deals with that fantastic superstition of seamen regarding ships that vanish from the seas forever.

The tale is that of a girl and two men who, following a shipwreck, find haven in a legendary "isle of ships" in the center of the weird Sargasso sea. The girl proves a welcome bit of salvage to the powerful and arrogant brute who rules the strange community of castaways. The fight one of the men wages with this beast for the possession of the girl is one of the most thrilling ever filmed.

"The Isle of Lost Ships" will offer the novelty-seeker something never to be forgotten, and will afford every film lover splendid entertainment. The story is from a novel by Crittenden Marriott.

CRITICAL POINT IN BIG CAMPAIGN

Salesmanship Drive Enters On Last Six Working Days Of First Period

By J. A. MALCOLM
Manager Salesmanship Club
This is the week of weeks in the big Salesmanship campaign now being conducted by The Glendale Evening News. Next Saturday night marks the close of the first period, the most important time of the entire race. Those who have an ambition to own one of the lots or the touring cars that are being offered, will not lose a single minute from now until Saturday night. Subscriptions mean WIN or LOSE—and subscriptions secured this week are worth more in credit value than they ever will be again.

A glance at the credit totals today proves that the club members are putting more enthusiasm into the work than has hitherto been manifested. It is well that they realize that the critical point of the campaign has been reached. Not to do your best this week is to deliberately turn your back on the greatest opportunity that may ever come your way. This week, to a large extent, will determine the big winners. Those who wish to share in the melon cutting on December 20th will do their level best between now and Saturday night.

Working For Credits
There are several club members who have just awakened to the fact that they can win if they will put forth the necessary effort to get the subscriptions and they are working hard to secure enough credits to place them in the lead of the entire campaign. It takes work to get the subscriptions but who would not devote every spare moment to the campaign if they knew they would be paid at the rate of $400 a week or $300 a week or $200 a week and that is what the winners of the grand capital prizes will receive for their time and effort in getting the subscriptions.

The winner of the first grand prize will receive about eight dollars for every hour they devote to the campaign from now until the end, December 20. The winner of the second grand prize lot will receive more than six dollars an hour for every working day from now until the end and the winners of the Nash touring car and the Maxwell touring car will receive about four dollars an hour. The winner of the first district prize will receive more than a dollar an hour. With this in mind surely you will do your very best from now until the end of the campaign. However, don't forget this is the week of weeks and after Saturday the subscriptions lose about one third of their voting value.

THIS IS FINAL WARNING.

Work of Organization Among Boys of Glendale Told In Budget Report

The Young Men's Christian Association, which is participating in the Welfare Chest drive, has a varied and well thought-out program to commend it to the support of the people of Glendale. While our city has not erected a building to house this institution, the following report shows what has been accomplished among the boys without having the facilities that most city Y. M. C. A.'s have;

The Hi-Y built a garage for a widow, furnishing a labor and part of the material. At Christmas time the clubs made up baskets of food and distributed them to needy families. Thirty-three dollars was given by the boys for work with boys of other lands. Thirty-five dollars was given by the boys to send two high school boys to the College Men's Conference at Asilomar. Fifteen dollars was given by one club to send an underprivileged boy to camp. Old clothes were collected for students in Russia.

Twenty-seven clubs, composing a membership of 324 boys, were in Bible study groups. Seventeen boys joined the church. Nine boys were turned over to the Sunday school as teachers. Harry Rimmer was brought to Glendale for a six-day period of meetings and spoke to 3,325 boys and girls with an evangelistic message.

CELEBRATE SIXTY YEARS TOGETHER

Mr. and Mrs. William Redding Mark Anniversary in Life's Journey

William Redding and Mary Ellen Wood were sweethearts back in Chariton county, Missouri, in the early "Sixties" and when she was only seventeen and he was twenty-two they were married November 10, 1863.

Over half a century has passed since that date and today Mr. and Mrs. Redding are celebrating their sixtieth wedding anniversary at their ranch home on Alameda street, Burbank.

Their journey through the years together has been a happy one and today as they are surrounded by a small group of relatives and friends, and recipients of gifts and messages from those far away, the hearts of this delightful old couple are full of the romance of the days of long ago.

Came Here From Texas

Both Mr. and Mrs. Redding were born in Chariton county, near Keytesville, Missouri, and there they lived until the fall of 1899, when they moved with their family to a big ranch home in Perryton, Ochiltree county, Texas.

They came to California two years ago, spending one winter at Atascadero and coming to Glendale the following spring.

They still own their home in Perryton, Texas, and while they love California and their ranch home at Burbank, they are often lonesome for their children and many friends in Missouri and Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Redding had nine children, seven of whom are living. They are L. B. Redding of Minnola, Kansas; Mrs. G. D. Brunson and Frank Redding of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Miss O. L. Redding of 610 North Kenwood street, Glendale; J. W. Redding of Burbank; J. J. Redding of Perryton, Texas; and Mrs. Mary Goodson of Norborne, Missouri.

They have ten grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Miss O. L. Redding and B. W. Redding are the only children spending today with their parents, and Mary Frances Redding is the only grandchild with them for their anniversary.

Reads Without Glasses

Possessed of an alert mind, keen sense of humor and interest in things at home and abroad, Mr. Redding does not look his age, and when he casually reads without his glasses it is hard to believe that he is past 80. This ability to read without glasses is (Continued on page 6)

School Official Stresses Importance of Constant Attendance by Students

By LORON T. ROWLEY
Supervisor of Attendance

From the time of the organization of the first school having classes the matter of punctual attendance has been one of the chief problems. The loss to the pupil absent was only one phase, as the time taken in attempts to help the pupil make up lost work was an injustice to other members of the class as well as to the teacher.

Various methods were used to secure regular attendance before compulsory education was established, such as offers of merit cards, rolls of honor either published in the papers or posted on the walls of the school, and the results compared with present methods may be realized by comparing high school and college attendance then and now.

Loss Means Failure
As each subject taken up in school was made up of successive links, the loss of one link might mean weakness or failure in the whole subject. This means that to a great degree the education of a pupil depended on promptness and regularity of attendance.

States recognizing this, passed compulsory educational laws in order that the carelessness, negligence or cupidity of parents might not defeat the efforts made for universal education.

With the congestion of inhabitants in the older countries, the need of more careful and extended education became necessary in order that we of America might compete successfully with other nations in the fields of commerce, invention and manufacture.

Thus the need of well laid foundations in primary school days requiring regular work. Today as never before, education is the very key to success.

Wage Difference
The vast gulf between the trained and untrained workers' wage should be enough argument to convince doubters as to need of education and as there is no chance for the poorly trained pupil to advance, failure in attendance often means partial or complete failure in life.

In looking over an engineering magazine, many positions are listed as open to graduate engineers, carrying a salary of $15,000 per annum. When we realize that regular school attendance may make a difference of thousands per year in a pupil's income or on the other hand irregular attendance may force him into competition with the lowest type of untrained foreign labor, we realize the importance of the subject. Here is an illustration:

A certain boy had dropped out of school, intending to go into a class of labor requiring the greatest physical effort with a very low wage. Under the school law he was sent in for part time training and in a few months under competent instruction, found that his earning capacity had been doubled with only a fraction of the physical effort formerly required.

Tells Local Problems
Reviewing local attendance problems, we may congratulate ourselves on the fact that the boys selling papers on our streets during school hours are not from our own schools, but come from districts where they are obliged to attend half day sessions.

Also the race question, so difficult to solve in other districts, is not present in our own. "What are you doing with the race problem?" I was asked by the head of the attendance department of a neighboring city. When I assured her we had none, she proposed to her assistant that they apply for positions in Glendale.

Since we have at our call assistance from the county juvenile department as to sub-normal and psychopathic cases we are ready to meet at least the problem of examination of these cases and we will hope that some future legislature will provide proper means of handling them.

Explains High Average
Replying to an inquiry by attendance officers as to how, in a past year, Glendale city schools won the highest percentage of average daily attendance in the state of California, I was able to readily explain it by referring to the high average of intelligence of our citizens, the fine co-operation of the P. T. A. in our city school work and chiefly to the well directed efforts of the teaching department.

Realizing that the many problems arising in a rapidly growing city as time goes on, a thorough study of our school law by parents themselves would simplify the work of the schools as many of the absences are due to lack of knowledge of the school law on the part of parents.

GUTHRIE URGES CHANGE IN LAWS

Mechanics' Lien and Charges in Minor Suits Form Topics at Meeting

A total of 220 delegates registered at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse for the regional conference of the seventh district of the California Real Estate association, called by Vice-president Charles B. Guthrie, Saturday. As there were some in attendance who did not register, it is estimated that there were between 250 and 300 representatives here from the various boards in the district.

Glenn D. Willaman, secretary of the state association, announced just before adjournment that there were 28 boards represented at the meeting and the number of delegates, 74: Santa Monica was second with 31, Torrance third with 14 and Riverside's 13 delegates took fourth place.

After being treated to a ride around the city which lasted from 1:30 to 2:30, the conference was again called to order by Vice-president Charles B. Guthrie, who turned the chair over to Fred E. Reed, former state president.

The question of multiple listing, its advantages and disadvantages, if any, was again taken up. H. E. Nightingale of the southwestern board of Los Angeles, stated briefly what had been gone over at the morning session, and gave pertinent facts regarding the operation of the plan as tried out for the past three years by his organization. He emphasized the point that the board should be made 100 per cent multiple listing, if at all possible. If this could not be accomplished, then the group system should be given a trial.

Will Publish Report
The discussion of this subject occupied the time of the conference until 4 o'clock, when the chairman called for recommendations. Under this head it was recommended that the arguments presented at the conference be published in the official magazine, "California Real Estate," and then put up in book form. The expense of the book will be borne by the different boards. Several drastic recommendations were made regarding the treatment to be accorded members of the various boards who did not come in for the multiple listing service. These did not come up for discussion, however, and some of the same opinion that this service would be of great benefit to the realtors, though there was some difference of opinion regarding the method of its application.

Delegates from the San Pedro board attempted to introduce a resolution providing for the equality of the boards of small cities when annexed by a larger city. The resolution stated at some length that the interests of the community could better be served by this step, as the interests were not always identical. This was ruled out of order by the chairman. He stated that there was a state committee to look after affairs of this kind.

Mechanics' Lien Law
Vice-president Guthrie brought up two matters, the first being the changing of the word "may" to "shall" in the Mechanics' Lien Law. He referred to the paragraph where it states the contractor "may" furnish to the property holder a list of those furnishing material and labor. Mr. Guthrie stated that in some states the word had been changed to "shall" to eliminate the possibility of an unscrupulous contractor collecting from the property owner for material or labor furnished and then failing to pay for the same.

The other was the exorbitant fees charged by lawyers in collecting nominal claims against real property. He stated that in some cases the fee for collecting $2 or $3 was as high as $25 or $50. No definite action was taken in either of these cases.

May Hold Up Licenses
Henry P. Barbour, of Long Beach, president, introduced a resolution asking that the local boards act as a committee of the whole and investigate the policy of every realtor doing business, whether a member of the board or not, and recommend to the state commissioner that any one found not complying with the law be refused a license at the first of the year. This was carried unanimously.

The conference was brought to a close with a vote of thanks to members of the local realty board for the treatment accorded the visiting delegates, and adjournment was taken at 5 o'clock.

GOLDEN RULE TO GUIDE REALTORS

Consolidation of Boards to Be Worked Out Fairly Says President

"The matter of the consolidation of the smaller realty boards in the various divisions of Los Angeles, with the Los Angeles Realty Board will, I believe, be worked out on the basis of the realtors' code of ethics, and on the Golden Rule," declared Henry P. Barbour, of Long Beach, president of the California Real Estate Association, in his address at the luncheon of the delegates to the regional conference of the seventh district, that was called by Vice President Chas. B. Guthrie, in Glendale, Saturday.

The state association will not force any board into any consolidation that is unwelcome to it," Mr. Barbour continued, "and I am convinced that the Los Angeles board is playing fair with every other board in this matter."

Mr. Barbour endorsed the Multiple Listing system and predicted that it would be in general use in every board in the United States within five years.

Mrs. Campbell Speaks
Following the singing of two songs by Mrs. Mildred Dixon Plummer, Mr. Guthrie introduced Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club, where the conference was held, and where the luncheon was served to the representatives of the twenty-six boards at the conference. Mrs. Campbell welcomed the realtors warmly, and spoke feelingly of the advances that have been made in the standards of the men engaged in the profession, declaring that she hoped the day would soon come, when it would only be necessary for the real estate men to work six days a week, instead of seven, as some of them now do, a sentiment which was warmly applauded by everyone present.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, first vice-president and chairman of the ways and means committee, giving the latter credit for much of the club's success.

Peter Hanson, president of the Glendale board, welcomed the delegates and tendered them the freedom of everything in sight. He expressed some surprise that people who live in other cities than Glendale, had been able to find so many good-looking women to accompany them here, declaring that this city has more handsome women than any other city in the world of its size.

Women's Legion Auxiliary Hears Inspiring Report Of National Convention

Glendale women of the Women's Auxiliary of the Glendale American Legion post, meeting this afternoon in the Legion hall on East Broadway, were inspired by the detailed report of the recent fifth national convention of the American Legion, given by Mrs. Margaret Kaeding, president of the local organization.

While in the north Mrs. Kaeding was honored by appointment to the Americanization committee, and her comprehensive account given this afternoon outlining events and actions of the northern convention was splendidly arranged and presented. Excerpts from the report follow:

"San Francisco put on her gala attire and opened her heart to her visitors for the fifth national convention of the American Legion, October 15 to 19. The Legionnaires found the city ready with the spirit that has made San Francisco famous as the most hospitable city in the United States. It was the same heartfelt and heart-given spirit that dates back many years. It was the same spirit that greeted the thousands of Spanish war troops that poured through San Francisco back in '98 and repeated itself when the veterans of the Philippine and Chinese campaigns returned, the spirit that not even the disaster of 1906 could kill.

Dominant Figure
"The first great demonstration came when Lieutenant General Hunter Liggett, commander of California's own troops, took the stand. Not the trim old whipcord of those days clothed him, but yet in the mufti of now, General Liggett was the same dominant figure that he was in war as he spoke, without flourish or oratory, a few words of welcome and then introduced Senator Hiram Johnson.

"Again the delegates roared their enthusiasm, and the roar swelled into a great demonstration as the Senator, calling on all his power of eloquence, roused his hearers to a great fervor of patriotism in a speech that smacked not of politics but only of Americanism.

"With a stirring appeal for adjusted compensation for the ex-service man, and for national preparedness in order to avoid future slaughter of the youth of America, Dr. Kate Waller Barrett, national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, sounded the trumpet call of the organization at the opening meeting, before 1000 delegates gathered for the initial meeting.

"The color bearers came forward with their banners, followed by a large delegation of Virginians and led by the only Congress-

Monster Parade
"Both the Legion and Auxiliary adjourned Tuesday morning to participate in the great parade. I wonder what the fellows on the side lines thought of that parade, and about those who did not serve their country. I wonder if they didn't say to themselves after seeing the buddies parade, 'Gee, I wish now that I had taken the same chance they did!' How thankful we are that we have such men as our fathers who served through the Civil War. It is such (Continued on page 6)

ADJUTANT TO BE HIRED BY LEGION

Press of Duties on Officers Demands Employment of Full Time Official

So rapid has been the growth of Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion, that the strength of the organization now demands the services of a paid adjutant, who can devote all of his time to the business of the post, and preliminary steps were taken at the regular meeting Friday night to accomplish this.

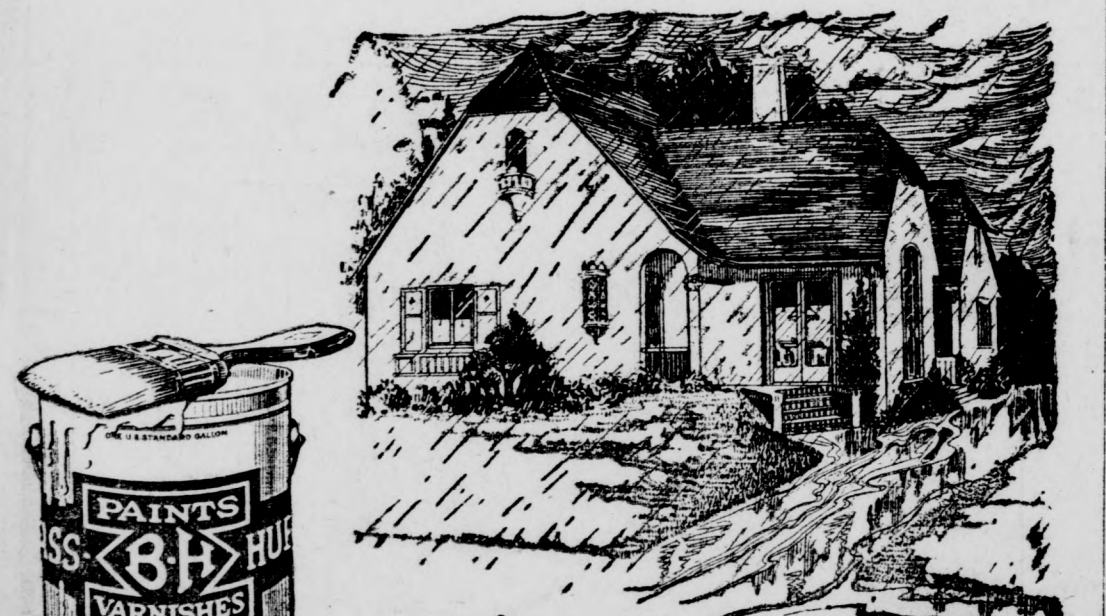

Many of the advantages to be derived by having a paid adjutant, with his office in the legion club rooms, were stressed by Commander Chas. D. Day. Many ex-service men are coming to Glendale, and there should be headquarters and information bureau, open during the day, where they can make their headquarters. There are also many ex-service men in Glendale who do not belong to the legion, who would be willing to join, if approached on the matter. It is impossible for the rank and file of the membership to attend to this branch of the work, as they are generally occupied in other ways during the day time. In addition, the paid adjutant would take over much of the work that now falls upon the shoulders of the legion officers, which at times calls for a sacrifice of their personal interests to their own detriment. The local post now has a membership of over 200. This was the strength of the Pasadena post when a paid adjutant was employed there, and the post now has a membership of 800.

Will Explain Method
To enlighten the local members along this line, the paid adjutants from the posts at Pasadena, Long Beach, Los Angeles No. 8, and Los Angeles Victory No. 54, have been invited to attend the meeting next Friday night, November 23. They will explain under what methods they operate, and how the plan is financed.

Seven new members were added to the rolls Friday night. Jack G. Elmer, W. B. Simpson and George M. Thompson were initiated and the following were gained by transfer: C. W. Jones, Leland Abbott, Frank Edwards and Charles H. Nellers.

Neal L. Ray and Walter Allgöre, both of the Alexandria, Minnesota, post, were present as guests.

Commander Day has requested the Past Commanders to take charge of the regular meetings the latter part of November, and the first part of December. James F. McBride will have charge on (Continued on page 6)

Dry Stucco Homes

THE modern stucco home is undeniably attractive. Yet practically every person who occupies one remarks shiveringly, "It's the dampest house we have ever lived in." Stucco surfaces, though durable, are very porous, and readily absorb moisture. That is why the walls of such houses are often damp, no matter how much heat is used. NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Bored husbands put one over on their wives at the recent annual recital of Mme. Eva Gauthier at Aeolian hall. Jiggs' discovery of corned beef and cabbage on the menu of a polite Parisian cafe could not have been more gratifying.

Not that this talented artist's program lacked ancient airs of recognized repute, for it included "Hark, Hark, the Echoing Air," a selection from the "Fairy Queen," and other delectable musical morsels, but—

The hit of the evening was "Alexander's Ragtime Band," a transcending critics, with customary restraint, satisfied themselves in referring to this and to one or two other jazz selections, by noting Mme. Gauthier's "extraordinary catholicity" of taste. She also rendered "Carolina in the Morning."

But those noble martyrs to domestic tranquility revelled in it, and their shoulders shook suspiciously as the syncopated strains of "Come On and Hear" shocked the boys with long hair and Lord Fauntleroy neckties.

Mme. Gauthier was ostensibly "introducing" American jazz music to the recital world.

But many New York husbands need no introduction to Nora Bayes nor Irene Bordoni.

Senior Vicente Blasco Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and other celebrated novels, was "ticked pink" at a reception in his honor given by 500 members of the Authors' League of America recently at the Hotel Waldorf—only he didn't know what it was all about.

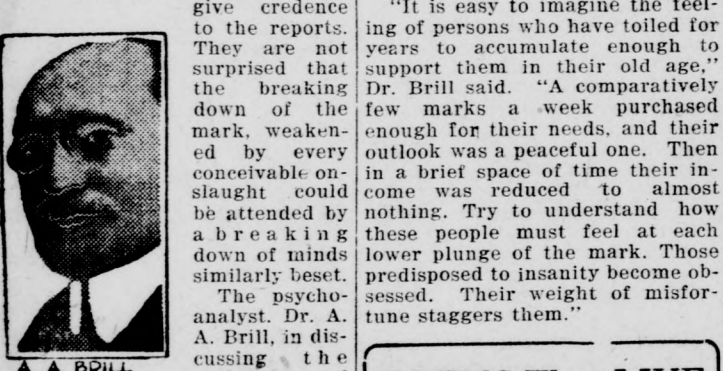

Senior Ibanez speaks Spanish only, and apparently his translator's version of the divers and sundry "wise cracks" carefully prepared days in advance by the witty and spontaneous speakers were a total loss.

Each author strove valiantly to be funny—in fact, everybody but the guest of honor was highly amused. The famous Spaniard,

PSYCHOANALYST EXPLAINS GERMANY'S "MARK CRAZE"

"Mark Madness," the cables report, is the latest of the afflictions visited upon Germany through the decline of her currency. Psychiatrists in the U. S. give credence to the reports.

They are not surprised that the breaking down of the mark, weakened by every conceivable onslaught could be attended by a breaking down of minds similarly beset. The psychoanalyst, Dr. A. A. Brill, in discussing the outbreak of "mark madness," declared a short time ago, that any minds of the weaker sort would inevitably collapse under such strain as the German people are bearing. Dr. Brill, who returned recently from abroad, says that the middle classes are in a deplorable plight, for they have been the chief mourners at the funeral of the mark.

"The depreciation of a currency would not cause insanity in a well-balanced mind," said the doctor. "In some minds, however, it would precipitate a pronounced type of madness. Persons predisposed to mental instability cannot stand the stress of a desperate situation, particularly one in which their livelihood is threatened."

"Under normal conditions such persons can go through life without showing very alarming signs of mental frailty. But when they are confronted by so startling a crisis as that brought about by the depreciation of the mark, they lose control of their faculties. In the strong-minded person the mark's drop might create emotional excitement, but it would not bring on actual insanity."

Dr. Brill does not believe that mark madness results from the strenuous calculations necessary nowadays to virtually every German. He is of the opinion that the blow that breaks the mental balance is the realization that the once respected legal tender is well-nigh worthless.

"It is easy to imagine the feeling of persons who have toiled for years to accumulate enough to support them in their old age," Dr. Brill said. "A comparatively few marks a week purchased enough for their needs, and their outlook was a peaceful one. Then in a brief space of time their income was reduced to almost nothing. Try to understand how these people must feel at each lower plunge of the mark. Those predisposed to insanity become obsessed. Their weight of misfortune staggers them."

Why touch upon a subject that lack of knowledge forces you to drop.

WHESTER OF PENN STATE

Ed Howe of Atchison, Kansas, better known as the "Sage of Potato Hill," who has been visiting in New York recently, told Journalism students of Columbia university the other evening how to apply the acid test to a news story.

Anything that will make a woman throw up her hands and say "For Heaven's sake!" is news, said Mr. Howe.

It takes an auction sale of articles having something more than intrinsic value to bare characteristic human traits in all their unadorned nakedness.

When the household furnishings from the late residence of Mrs. George J. Gould were under the hammer recently there was a wild scramble of eager women, as well as professional dealers.

Highest prices, of course, were paid by the traders, but the real competition was between private bidders.

One woman, victorious in her clamorous offers for a small bronze Buddha, went out hugging it fondly to her bosom, declaring she had never been so "thrilled" in her life.

Another, purchaser of an overstuffed chair, seated herself in it and sighed contentedly, as her late competitors surveyed her ruefully in green-eyed jealousy.

A woman who previously had purchased a rug, returned with a request for her money back, saying the rug was too large for her room. When the rug was being resold the auctioneer told his patrons it was "too big for a bathroom" and advised them not to bid on it until they were sure of room dimensions.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND NANNIE'S BEADS

"There is one more—away over under that log!" said Uncle Wiggily, pointing to a distant, fallen tree. And when the Bob Cat walked away over to the log to look for a bead there Uncle Wiggily whispered to Nannie: "Never mind that one last bead—we'll let that go. And while the Bob Cat is looking for it we'll run on to school and he can't nibble my ears!"

So while the bad chap was picking up the last bead, away off under the log, Nannie and Uncle Wiggily went to school.

"What are you going to buy—a yeast cake?" asked the bunny. "Of course not!" bleated Nannie. "I am going to get a string of glass beads to wear around my neck. Uncle Butter gave me the money and there's a lovely string of green glass beads down in the store window. I thought maybe you would like to come along and help me buy them."

"Why, of course I will!" cried Uncle Wiggily, and limping along on his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch, Uncle Wiggily went with Nannie to get the little goat girl's beads.

It was, indeed, a beautiful string of glass green beads hanging in the store window. The lady mouse on the beads, making them look like a necklace of four-leaf clovers.

"Oh, I can hardly wait to get them," bleated Nannie, jumping up and down. "Well, don't jump through the window—that's all I ask," spoke Uncle Wiggily, with another twinkle of his pink nose. "You might break the glass, you know, if you jumped through the window."

"Yes," laughed Nannie, "I might."

"And you might break the string of beads and scatter them all over if you jumped through the window," went on the bunny. "Yes," agreed Nannie, "I might!"

Then she went in the store with the rabbit gentleman and bought the string of green glass beads, with the sun shining through them, making them look like five-leaf clovers.

"There you are, my dear," said the kind, fat Tabby Cat lady who kept the store as she gave Nannie the beads. "They will look beautiful on you."

And, indeed, the beads were a pretty sight around Nannie's neck.

"Are you going to wear them to school?" asked Uncle Wiggily as Nannie started out of the store, with the beads glistening in the sun like part of a watermelon.

"Of course, I am," said the little goat.

"Well, I'll hop along with you to see that you get there safely," offered Mr. Longears. So he and the little goat girl hopped along together, the green glass beads going clinkety clink like trolley car wheels.

All of a sudden, just before Nannie reached the hollow stump school, where the Lady Mouse taught—all of a sudden, there was a strange noise in the bushes.

"Oh, what's that?" bleated Nannie, putting her hoof up to the string of beads around her neck. But before the rabbit gentleman could answer, out from behind a big rock popped the Bob Cat with his silly little tail.

"Oh!" screamed Nannie, and she was so excited that she pulled on her beads. The string broke and the beautiful round pieces of glass, like drops of sea water, scattered and rolled all around on the woodland path.

"Now, Bob Cat! See what you did!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "You were to blame for making Nannie spill her beads! You're a bad Bob Cat! Why did you pop out on us this way, anyhow?"

"I—I came to nibble your ears!" stammered the Bob Cat, for Uncle Wiggily spoke so bravely and boldly that the bad chap didn't know what to think.

"Nibble my ears! The idea!" cried the bunny. "You shall not have a single nibble until you pick up every one of Nannie's green beads. For you frightened her and made her break the string so they have rolled all over. Pick up every bead before you nibble my ears!"

"All right! All right! Don't be so cross about it!" spoke the Bob Cat, humbly. Then he began nosing around picking up the beads. He picked up six, ten, forty-seven and gave them to Nannie.

W. D. McEee

From the dark obscurity that envelops the country lawyer to the bright limelight that beats upon the man whose name has been published on the front page of every daily newspaper in the land is the almost overnight evidence of the Hon. William Dalton McEee, representative in Oklahoma legislature and recognized leader of the forces opposing Governor Dalton in the latter's attempt to prevent the legislature from convening.

McEee is an ex-cowboy. He spent his early manhood breaking "buckin' horses" on the Mule Shoe Ranch in Texas. Later he turned to a milder occupation, that of the law, and today resembles a typical country school teacher. He is thin, mild-mannered and smiles kindly over horn-rimmed glasses. He was born in Austin, Texas, 47 years ago. He is married, father of five children, four boys and one girl. Was at one time state senator in New Mexico, now representative from Stephens county, Oklahoma, where he has lived and practiced law since 1896.

McEee is a lawyer.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

The Malnourished Child, No. 1

The following are the causes of malnourishment:

1. Insufficient and improper diet. Faulty food habits.
2. Physical defects, especially obstructive adenoids and tonsils.
3. Irritating and unpleasant home atmosphere; lack of home control.
4. Insufficient sleep.
5. Over-fatigue.
6. Faulty health habits.

Aside from the infectious diseases, by far the greatest percent of the disorders of children are traceable directly to improper foods, insufficient foods and faulty food habits.

"How can I make my little girl eat, Doctor? It is so hard to get her to eat the things she needs. She won't eat this, she won't eat that, she is finicky, irritable and nervous. She is very much underweight, but I cannot get her interested in eating."

This is from one of my correspondents. The following is from another:

"Doctor, I am writing this, not to thank you for having given me instructions by which I have reduced my weight, but because you have saved the life of my little girl."

"She was slowly but surely going to death. I had her examined again and again by a good physician. He said there was nothing organically wrong with her, but that she must eat more of the nourishing foods. We did not understand anything about food values and we thought she was eating a lot. Still she did not gain, but was losing and we were in despair."

"Then came your 'Key to the Calories.' God bless you! And God bless the calories! She has gained five pounds in weight in ten days and is herself counting her calories and making a little game of it."

"We found she had been taking only one-third of the number of calories she needed, and we thought that she was eating a lot! She is a different child already."

SOME VALUABLE LESSONS.

The first mother who wrote caught some very valuable lessons from the second mother. The first lesson is that the child was taken to a physician to find out if there was anything organically wrong with her. The second is that the mother got the child's interest in its own welfare. And the third is that the mother herself studied and got a knowledge of the elements of nutrition.

I might add that the physician who did the examining could also get a lesson from this letter, and the next time be more specific in his directions to a parent regarding so vital a thing as the diet of a child in this state.

The first mother might also get a very wrong impression from the second mother's letter. It is this, that a knowledge of the blessed calories was all that is necessary. Oh, no! Oh, NO, INDEED! I am emphatic about this because there is so much misinformation broadcast about calories.

A knowledge of the caloric value of foods is simply one of the essentials of a modern scientific knowledge of nutrition. Simply one, BUT a big one. In the case of this little malnourished girl it was a knowledge that saved her life.

PICTORIAL REVIEW

COATS OF YOUTHFUL DESIGN

If a coat has a straight line and is simply designed, it is in the height of fashion, no matter how simply it is made. To the left is a model for school wear, developed in soft tweed. It fastens in double-breasted effect and has revers and collar of self material. Turn-back cuffs finish the two-piece sleeves, and the belt is slipped through straps at the underarm seams. Fancy machine stitching is all the trimming required for this design, which requires 2 1/4 yards 54-inch material for medium size.

Tweed, gersona cloth, or any of the soft-pile woollens may be used for the second model, which may be closed to the neck or rolled with the fronts to form revers. The body of the coat is lengthened with a three-piece circular flounce and embellished with fancy machine stitching to correspond with the long flare sleeves. Medium size requires 2 yards 54-inch material.

First model: Pictorial Review coat No. 1816. Sizes 6 to 17 years. Price 35 cents.

Second model: Coat No. 1814. Sizes 6 to 14 years. Price 35 cents.

Heart and Home Problems

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman of twenty-seven and have kept company with a man of twenty-eight. We got along finely for one year until another man tried to get him away from me. We quit going together for two months. Then I was taken sick last month and went to the hospital. After I came back he started coming to see me and has been coming twice a week.

Please advise me whether I should take him back or not, as he listened to his friend in the first place. I love him with my whole heart and he does me. He told me Sunday that he could not stay away.

He is not fond of dancing, and he doesn't want me to go. Every move I make he knows about, as some one carries the news to his folks and then they run me down. I am terribly discouraged about that, as I hear it all the time. But he treats me well except that he is jealous about me. Kindly advise me what to do.

BROKEN-HEARTED M.

Since the man loves you so much that he cannot stay away, he ought to be considerate enough of your feelings to keep the unpleasant things he hears to himself. It is bad enough for him to listen to the tales that are carried to his parents, but it is worse that he should repeat them to you and in that way hurt your feelings. Tell him that you would do nothing you consider wrong, and if he wants you as you are, you are glad to have him as your friend, but if he is dissatisfied with you and feels he must always be criticizing and telling you of unpleasant things, you would rather not have him come.

The question of dancing often proves to be grave, but not always. If you marry the man be sure that you love him so much that you will gladly give up dancing for his sake. Since he has a jealous nature, he would be utterly miserable if you attended dances and his unhappy state of mind would make you miserable too.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am in love with a girl who seems to return my love and at other times doesn't seem to care at all for me. I am sure she doesn't know how much I care for her. How can I find out whether or not she loves me and make her know my love for her?

Since you feel that the girl is indifferent to you at times it would be most unwise to tell her of your love now. My advice is to keep her wondering how much you care for her. If she goes with other young men, do not confine your interests exclusively to her, but go with other girls. If she feels she is losing you, she may value your friendship more.

The only way to be sure of her love is to declare yours and to ask her if she loves you. Such a course would not be advisable, however, unless the time is propitious. You ought to be able to determine the girl's regard for you by the way she acts. If she is glad to have you come to see her and to go places with you, she probably cares for you. But if she makes excuses when you seek her company, you may depend upon it that she is indifferent to you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please tell me what will kill hair roots? Is it all right for a girl to ask a boy to take her places after they are engaged?

BETTY.

The electric needle will kill the roots.

It is all right for a girl to ask her fiancé to take her places. She should not, however, overdo the matter to such an extent that she considers her feelings and not his.

A familiar figure in the political world stalked through the lobby of the St. Francis hotel in San Francisco, according to the San Francisco Chronicle.

"What party does he belong to?" asked the Chatty Guest.

"Shush!" warned the Wild Wag. "He would be horribly offended to hear that question. You should ask what party belongs to him."

ANKLES AND FEET

If you have thick, heavy ankles I can give you no better advice at this time of the year than to tell you to purchase a pair of military heeled, high laced shoes, and to tell you to wear them all winter. Keep them always laced snugly, though never tight enough to impede the circulation and make the feet cold. This literally wears away a surprising amount of flesh. You will see for yourself how shoes that spread apart from the tops can gradually be drawn smoothly together. This is due somewhat to the stretching of the shoe itself, but not all.

Here are some exercises to reduce the ankles. Do them once a day, preferably twice, repeat each exercise six times with each foot: Stretch the foot out, spread the toes and draw them together. Point the foot down, bending from the ankle, then up, then outwards, then inwards. Clasp the knee with both hands and rotate the foot rapidly from the ankle and not from the knee.

These exercises will not only reduce fat ankles in a few weeks, they will also strengthen weak ankles.

Many forms of outdoor sport are good for the ankles, fast walking, running, tennis playing, skating, for instance. Personally, I have more faith in methods like these than in the various anti-fat lotions which are sold to take off flesh. I have great faith in massage as a means of reducing ankles, for the flesh can be rubbed and kneaded with great vigor, and if it is merely soft accumulated fat and not muscle it can be dispelled.

I know one stout woman who used to take baths with reducing salts. Sometimes these salts are effective, but when they are very hard on the heart because of their violent action upon the skin, and they should never be used without consulting a physician. This woman used them in footbaths to reduce her feet and ankles.

Miss M. S.—Consult the doctor about these spreading pimples. There may be some physical condition causing the trouble.

Ethel C.—The only thing to do is to wait for the return of the natural color to your hair. Dye would only increase the injury you have already wrought through the peroxide bleaching. Apparently

Are your heels and ankles slender?

If you have a healthy scalp which is a fortunate thing for you, Most likely the new hair that is coming in will never show any of the ill effects of your past experiments. Tomorrow—Answered Letters

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department, will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

With the Women of Today

By MRS. LILIAN CAMPBELL

ANOTHER "GRAND OLD" BUSINESS WOMAN

At the age of 83 years, Miss W. Robinson of Seaford, Del., still conducts her dry goods and millinery business. She has been in business continuously for more than fifty years.

Miss Lydia Roberts, assistant professor of the department of economics, University of Chicago, is recognized as an authority on dietary courses for children. This phase of health work for children has assumed vast importance, and before they are entrusted with this responsibility.

"A foundation in science is, of course, the prime requisite in nutrition work," she said. Physiology of digestion, absorption, assimilation and the whole chain of nutritive processes, and the chemistry of food and nutrition are particularly necessary for the nutrition worker. In addition to these she needs an up-to-date practical working knowledge of foods and food values. With this detailed knowledge she is able to adapt her advice to suit the customs and the food supply of a locality or to the prejudices of the different nationalities without sacrificing the value of the diet."

While a rescue party was being organized at a Scottish mine recently, Thomas Thomasop, father of one of the men trapped, used the company's telephone which connected with a mine chamber below. Strangely enough, his son answered at the other end, and they talked until the water, rising swiftly, cut off communication. The father gave his son instructions how to avoid death, but the son stayed to give instructions to others who had a chance at safety and was himself one of the victims.

The French people for years have taken a light breakfast, usually of rolls and coffee, which is quite a different thing from the English or American breakfast of ham and eggs, fruit, toast, coffee, cereal, etc. The old custom is being relinquished, however, in favor of the American habit, largely as an economic measure. By having a substantial breakfast at rising and other meals in accordance with the English or American work day, the French are able to adopt the American or English work day.

FAREWELL BY PHONE
While a rescue party was being organized at a Scottish mine recently, Thomas Thomasop, father of one of the men trapped, used the company's telephone which connected with a mine chamber below. Strangely enough, his son answered at the other end, and they talked until the water, rising swiftly, cut off communication. The father gave his son instructions how to avoid death, but the son stayed to give instructions to others who had a chance at safety and was himself one of the victims.

EAT BIG BREAKFAST
The French people for years have taken a light breakfast, usually of rolls and coffee, which is quite a different thing from the English or American breakfast of ham and eggs, fruit, toast, coffee, cereal, etc. The old custom is being relinquished, however, in favor of the American habit, largely as an economic measure. By having a substantial breakfast at rising and other meals in accordance with the English or American work day, the French are able to adopt the American or English work day.

Good Pie Crust (requested by Mrs. R.)—Put into a mixing bowl one and one-half cups of bread flour and work into this, with the finger tips, one-half cup of lard. Add to it one level teaspoon of salt and stir in two-thirds of a cup of cold water. This makes a stiff paste. Turn it out onto a floured board and roll to about one-fourth inch in thickness. Put one-half cup of butter over it in small pieces (these butter pieces will have to lie closely together on the dough), then sift one-half cup of flour over the butter. Fold the dough in from both ends till it makes a long roll. Double this roll in the middle so as to form a square. Take a sharp knife and cut this square in half. Set one-half of the square aside for another pie. Roll the one on the board into as nearly a perfect circle as possible, then lift it onto a pie pan. Stick it with a fork on the bottom and press the edges into a ridge around the rim of the pan. Bake it in a hot oven till brown—about twenty minutes. Then fill with the following:

Chocolate Filling—Put in the top of your double boiler one pint of boiling water, three squares of unsweetened chocolate (shaved) and one cup of granulated sugar.

Solvent till chocolate is dissolved, then stir into it two tablespoons of chocolate which has been mixed to a paste with a little cold water. When this thickens, add the beaten yolks of two eggs and turn the mixture out into a dish to cool. Pour it into the baked lower crust and cover with a meringue made of two stiffly beaten egg-whites sweetened with one tablespoon of sugar. Slip the pie into a moderate oven for a few moments, to brown the meringue.

Celery-Onion Salad—Combine one cup of diced celery, one-half cup of chopped raw onion, and one-fourth cup of chopped green sweet pepper. Moisten all with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

Rice Muffins—Mix one cup of cold boiled rice with one cup of sweet milk. Now add one well-beaten egg, one teaspoon of sugar, one-half teaspoon of salt and one pint of flour which has been sifted with two teaspoons of baking powder. Turn into buttered muffin pans and bake in a hot oven from fifteen to twenty minutes.

Ham Escallop—Put cooked leftover ham through the food chopper, then measure it. Mix with it an equal amount of fine bread crumbs. Season the mixture with salt and pepper; add a little butter and enough milk to moisten. Fill buttered ramekins half full with this, then break an egg into each ramekin. Bake eight minutes in a hot oven and serve at once.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department, will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Appeals to Community Loyalty of Glendale Citizens Have Never

Citizens Endorse a Movement to Foster Community Loyalty and Sanction a Practical Business Co-operation Between Buyer and Seller In the Building of a Bigger, Better Glendale Merchandising Center

A Greater Glendale Is Arising from the Habit of Trading at Home

Those whose cards are printed on this page have banded together to build a Greater Glendale. They are men and women who are in business or are engaged in some trade, calling or profession. They want to give you the best possible merchandise and the best possible service for the money you spend with them and they want to provide a pleasing environment for you when you come to their places of business.

And they want your business. They must have it to succeed, and they are entitled to it. It is true, they are in business to make a living and more for themselves and their families, but at the same time they are working for your interests too.

They are building a Greater Glendale by building up their own business and providing stores and offices that attract. Your money spent with these people is used in local improvements of every character while money spent in other cities goes to build up those cities.

Glendale rejoices in the growth of her neighbors but Community Loyalty compels us to foster and promote our own interests and let outside communities take care of themselves.

Community pride has helped to make Glendale the fastest growing city in the United States and the appeal to the loyalty of our citizens has never been in vain. Witness, Glendale's various business centers and note the increased building activity, the rapidly rising skyline; note the unusual and the beautiful in architecture, equipment and arrangement and observe the real city atmosphere that envelops our commercial activities.

Of course people come to Glendale for many reasons, but our ever-increasing commercial prestige is due to Community Loyalty. The people are quick to respond to every movement of the merchants for a Greater Glendale. This co-operation must and will continue. Glendale people have acquired the habit of trading at home and a Greater Glendale we can scarcely vision must arise as a result of this Community Loyalty and Co-operation.

THIS page appears in The Glendale Evening News once a week. On another page is a classified index which explains the location of the cards on this page. The building of a greater community sentiment is the purpose of this page. Co-operation between the merchant and the buyer put into actual practice is a community builder.

Broadway Fathers to See Classes at Work

Fathers of the Broadway school children are enthusiastically supporting their new organization, and a record attendance is anticipated on Thursday night, November 22, when both fathers and mothers are to visit the school and inspect the work of the various classes.

In recognition of "National Educational Week," Superintendent Richardson D. White is to be present and talk about educating the boys and girls.

There will be a short meeting of the Fathers' Auxiliary to consider plans for securing more shrubbery for the school grounds, and new and more lights for the school stage.

Another event looked forward to by the "dads" is an old-fashioned smoker December 6, at the Sparr Heights Community building. The invitation to this affair reads: "All the fathers are going to have a game of cribbage, pinocle, five-hundred, or anything else they want to play. Get your ticket next Thursday night and bring Mr. Brown and Mr. Smith with you."

Golden Rule to Be Motto of Realtors

Town oration on the beauties of his own city, that was a riot and that would have entitled him to consideration in any prize contest ever staged. He also recited "Little Boy Blue."

Glenn D. Williamson, secretary of the state association, also spoke, stating that the report of Saturday's conference and its findings, would be sent to every board in the state through the organization's magazine.

Mrs. Grand, of Pasadena, invited the realtors to the annual convention that is to be held in that city next year.

The day of the commission grabbing in the real estate business went out of date as the day of the realtor came in," declared Fred E. Reed, former state president. He stressed the point that a realtor must know intimately, the subject in which he deals, that he must put his client first, and he urged that a profession be employed in the University of California.

Referring to the Home Town contest at the state convention for the cup which he donated for the realtors of the state to compete for every year, and in which Peter Hanson was placed second at Sacramento, Mr. Reed said "If I had been judge of that contest Bob Swink of Pasadena would never have been on the map at all. That cup would have gone to Glendale."

PROVE EFFICACY OF TRAFFIC PLAN

Eliminates Left Hand Turns, Directing Autos by Means of Barriers

The solution for traffic jams offered more than a year ago by Mayor J. C. Crawford was recently demonstrated at the intersection of Santa Monica and Wilshire boulevards, and is reported by Chief Charles C. Blair of the Beverly Hills police department, as a complete success.

The principal feature of the plan is the elimination of left hand turns, the traffic being directed to its destinations by barriers. While the plan used in the demonstration was only a part of the solution worked out by Mayor Crawford, it had the effect of keeping the lines of vehicles moving.

Mayor Crawford's plan is to have every line of traffic make a turn at the intersection, thus avoiding all traffic. Instead of employing this method, they permitted one line of traffic to proceed straight ahead.

In regard to his system, Mayor Crawford says:

"It provided for an uninterrupted flow of traffic at all times. By the old method, although there are two roads, each of which is used only half the time, the two combines equal only one road."

Mayor Crawford has been told by Dr. E. H. Thompson, who has traveled extensively in Europe, that this plan is in great favor over there.

Appreciate Opportunities
Burbank's chief present need is appreciation of its opportunities, Philip Norton told Rotarians at their last weekly luncheon held in the Sunset Canyon Country club.

"We should sell Burbank to ourselves," he said, "and then sell it to every resident of the city, before we attempt to sell it to others."

When Burbank has grasped the significance of her present status, she will enter into a new era of development. You have to see a thing clearly and understand it thoroughly before you can explain it to someone else.

"The trouble is, we Burbank folks are too close to the situation to see it clearly in all its details. It sometimes takes an outsider of fresh perspective to grasp the situation and recognize the possibilities here."

"While we could not stop Burbank from developing if we tried, yet we can slow up that development greatly by failing to take full advantage of the advantageous situation which is ours. We enjoy at the present time not a boom, but a genuine and solid growth."

"It is a world situation which is building Burbank, as it is building other communities in Southern California. The center of equilibrium has shifted from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean. Europe has given up the reins of world rule to America."

TUJUNGA

FOUR DIRECTORS ELECTED BY C. C.

Highway Commission Will Be Asked to Oil Paving Along Boulevard

At the annual election meeting of the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce, four new directors were elected to fill expired terms on the board. Harry Zachau, Leon Carr, C. H. Conway and J. C. Haines are the four new members. Directors remaining in office are H. H. Breidt, L. H. Fisher, Edward Darlington, Nelson E. Jones and J. O. B. Bodkin.

No contest developed in the election of the new directors as there were no active candidates. About sixty-five ballots were cast. Secretary L. H. Fisher was instructed, by a motion unanimously carried, to interview the maintenance department of the state highway commission at Los Angeles, in an effort to have a top application of oil added to the gravel extensions now being made to the pavement along Michigan boulevard. It is to be pointed out to the supervisors that unless this is done, the first rain will undo most of the work now being done by the road crew, just as has been the case every year.

Direct Mail Service
Secretary Fisher reported that efforts to secure direct mail service between Tujunga and Glendale, as well as other valley points, had resulted in the postal authorities ordering a check of mail passing between Glendale and the Verdugo hills in order to establish the importance of this service. At present mail for Glendale from Tujunga, Sunland, La Crescenta and Montrose must first go to Los Angeles, and be re-distributed from the main office.

George B. Shaffer, of the Monte Vista Valley Improvement League, was present at the meeting and stated that the Sunland Chamber of Commerce and the improvement league have joined forces in an effort to have affel trees planted along each side of Michigan avenue from the Tujunga wash, west of Sunland, to Walnut drive, at the eastern edge of Sunland.

Mr. Shaffer asked the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce to continue the work to the eastern boundary of Tujunga. He stated that the trees are ornamental, grow rapidly, require little water and are inexpensive to buy.

This subject was referred to the incoming board of directors.

Improve Bus Line
Mr. Flitz, one of the new owners of the Verdugo Hills Transportation Company, addressed the meeting on the invitation of President Breidt, and stated that new equipment will be continuously added until the present busses have been entirely replaced by more modern vehicles. He invited the patrons of the line, and residents in general, to make any suggestions that would be for the improvement of the service.

Secretary Fisher reported that the Council of Community Service, has turned Monte Vista Lodge, at Sunland, over to the Volunteers of America, and that it will be conducted in the future as a home for the aged instead of undernourished children.

President Breidt summarized the work of the chamber for the past year. He stated also, that Tujunga is in line for gas service at no far distant date, quoting an official of the gas company, who assured him that this desirable service will come by way of Roscoe, through the Hansen Heights territory, to Sunland and Tujunga. This official stated that the mains being laid in Montrose and La Crescenta territory will be sufficient to serve that territory, but not the Tujunga Valley. The plan is to lay a six-inch main from Roscoe and connect with others at La Crescenta.

Treasurer Darlington reported a balance of $24.74 on hand after paying out $185.75 for panorama pictures of Tujunga Valley, which are to be sold.

Receive Invitation
Communications from L. I. Bronson, secretary of the San Fernando Chamber of Commerce, have been received by Tujunga and Sunland chambers, containing invitations to visit the Industrial Exposition at San Fernando.

Finishing touches are being put to the Breidt building and the contractor expects to turn over the completed building in a short time. Painters under the direction of T. C. Bloodworth, are staining the interior woodwork and carpenters are completing the interior finish.

Quarters for the Acacia club are also being finished upstairs. A kitchen is being equipped with plumbing and other rooms decorated.

Former residents of Massachusetts are to rally together Tuesday night, November 20, for a big pre-Thanksgiving dinner at the Oaks Tavern at Hill and Fourth streets, Los Angeles.

Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock and reservations are to be made in advance at the tavern.

The president, Henry M. Loud, will take charge of the after dinner program.

Hoosiers Will Stage Pie Social Tuesday

A pie social is the big pre-Thanksgiving affair that the Indiana state society is planning for Tuesday night in the Fraternal Brotherhood building, 845 Figueroa street, Los Angeles.

Riley Hogue will be host, and there will be a short program and dancing.

AVIATION SCHOOL
The New Zealand government will purchase the land and equipment of a privately owned aviation company for a school to train aviators and mechanics.
